HEADMASTER Mr.D.Robertson

“I am still learning”
Michelangelo

This little plaque sits on the window ledge in my study and it reminds me that there is never a day that goes by without learning, no matter who you are. Where there is learning, there should be growth, especially if we reflect often enough, and so it has been for me throughout my time at Shawnigan.

In the last twelve years as Headmaster of this marvelous school, I have learned so much about life and I have been forced to develop as a person. It's almost inevitable for me that when you are in a position where people are often looking to you for direction, guidance and answers, then you should become accustomed to problem-solving. Of course, to do that effectively you need to think clearly, articulate views and opinions and, above all become a student of the human race. I have greatly enjoyed helping people try to figure out the multitude and variety of challenges that life presents. In addition, when you see someone else grow, even with only a little bit of your help, you grow yourself.

I have learned that there is a time for logic and a time for emotion, a time for intuition and a time for deduction, but that you cannot let one aspect of handling life dominate completely. Because we are all different, we need to be exposed to a variety of strategies to handle life's ups and downs. Above all, I have learned that by far the greatest majority of people want to dwell in the realms of 'the positive'. Passion and enthusiasm are infectious - that's why we enjoy the atmosphere we have here at Shawnigan.

David Robertson,
Headmaster

Each year, DROB asks the student body, "What kind of school do you want?". This year in Yearbook, I know that we have captured the true essence of what it means to be a student at Shawnigan; to be part of a house, a community and a unique environment that attends to your growth. Our theme this year is, "Bloom where you are planted." Students at Shawnigan grow together, learn together and bloom into adulthood. As you flip through the pages of this yearbook, I know that you'll reflect on the good times that are continuously created here. Although it may be hectic sometimes, we all know that when we leave, we'll truly miss it. Even if you are a "lifer" or a new kid, we are Shawnigan; we are in this together. Good luck to the new grade 12's. And to the graduates, I hope this yearbook is something that you will look back on to remind you of your Shawnigan years.

Sincerely, Hailey Hewstan, 2012 Year Book Editor

I remember my first day at Shawnigan clearly. I met my roommates, my housemates, my Head of House and my grade mates. It took just one day to realize that I had come to the right place. Copeman's stresses the ideals of the gentlemen: tough, hardworking, committed, kind, humble and chivalrous. The Copeman's grade 12's have set aside many a free nights to find a solutions to various issues that have arisen in the house. Copeman's House is not about the punishment, but the result of the punishment. I have witnessed some truly remarkable changes. I have seen arrogance changed to humility, personal pride to communal pride, D's to A's, laziness to diligence, shyness to confidence, sadness to happiness, unfit to fit. Beyond all I have found brothers in Copeman's in lazy Sundays watching movies, studying late into the night, wrestling when you should be sleeping, and running hills for wrestling when you should be sleeping. I have laughed, cried, danced and loved every minute of it. And I cannot speak more highly of the mentorship of our house staff, most notably Mr. Hyde-Lay and Mr. Olson. As Mr. Wilke says "you have gotta separate the men from the boys," and that's exactly what we do here in Copeman's house, and we do it with a smile on our face. I know that the fun I have had and the lessons I have learned will always be with me, most notably DBD. Although I will be leaving Copeman's sooner than I would like, I am confident that Copeman's House will never leave me.

Renfrew is unique in that it is split between two locations. This has been both an advantage and disadvantage. The individual houses have grown extremely close due to the small number of girls. At the start of the year, we began to focus on growing together as a house. With the prospect of our new house, its important to be as united as possible. Both the new and old students met this challenge face on. Activities and outings have been organized to get to know each other. This year both houses, received many new students. Those students have distinguished themselves by melding in with the rest of the Renfrew girls. We were extremely happy with the way the year started, and are extremely optimistic for Renfrew's future. The most important thing about us is, we not only treat each other like family, we consider each girl part of our family.

A NEW BEGINNING & AN ENDING

When people first walk into the Main Building they are always in awe of its beauty. We, at Renfrew North, have the luxury and the privilege of living in the most historic building on campus and calling it home. Although the smallest House on campus in both numbers and size, there isn't a girl in our House who would wish to live somewhere else. Living in this one level, one hallway house has allowed friendships to form between each and every girl. Walking out our front door onto the landing to look out the leaded windows reminds us of the beauty of our House and this campus. It also reminds us that many students stood in that very spot over the decades. We are the last group of students to ever to laugh, study, and sleep in this beautiful Main Building. It has been an honour to be the last group to live here, and although there is excitement about the new Renfrew House being built on campus, we will always think of this lovely Building as 'home'. V. Returning from summer, I was oblivious to how extraordinary this year would be; however, one week into September and I knew it would be incomparable. Groves' became home to fifteen new girls. Each brought fresh energy and an original personality. The returning girls continued to shine, and welcomed the new additions into the family. I could not have had an easier, more enjoyable job as Head of House. Together we have triumphed over obstacles and achieved multiple successes. Our spirit remains proud and strong. I want to personally thank everyone who has contributed to this memorable year. To the Stroebels, your kindness is immeasurable and we appreciate all your time and energy. To the Browns, I am so happy that Groves' House was able to include you in our extended family; you have a special place in our hearts. Bev, you are the unsung hero in keeping our housekeeping high. Mrs. Bell and Mrs. Smith, your nights are always valued as each girl has benefited from your tutorials, guidance and company. To my fellow Grades 12's, you each contributed to Groves' House success. This year has brought me closer to each of you, and I will miss you all as we go our separate ways. Lastly, to all my sisters, you are Groves'. You each embody the virtues we strive for: kindness, integrity, and confidence, and most importantly, your senses of humour. I will forever remember late night chats, House events, random parties involving everything from ice cream to dancing, and those moments that summed up our friendship. Continue to be the most amazing girls on campus!

Another exceptional year for the boys in Lonsdale's: success on all grounds, including the rugby pitch, achieved both individually and as a group. Since the beginning of the year the house has become more worn and lived in, with everyone making it an awesome place to be. It is very uplifting to live in a house full of such awesome guys. The spirit has been great throughout year with all the interhouse events and outings; as well as in the dining hall and dorm. Representing Lonsdale's gives me great pride, and it is tremendous that there are 51 boys who feel the same way. Grinding it through, the boys stuck it out through the tough times, rising to face challenges only to land stronger and ready for the next event or busy week. To see the boys enter the house one by one on the first day of school leave the house together or all sit around the common room and have a laugh, shows the bonds that are made and kept in Lonsdale's. The staff play a huge part in the house and this year was no exception. The addition of Mr. Monro further strengthened our amazing crew of Mr. Receveaux, Mr. Craig and our big bro, Mr. Venables. Not to forget the women who keep us all together and do such a fantastic job of making sure we're looking tidy and being our mothers away from home: Colleen, Mrs. Coy and Ms. Dewis. Our leaders Mr. Morris and Mr. Coy kept us in line, at least in fire drills, as well as putting in the tough hours to make sure we all went to bed safe. I could go on for an eternity about how much Lonsdale's means to each of us, but I'd just like to thank everyone who made it what it has been, and will be, for years to come.

To be honest, this write-up was hard to do. There are fifty-three girls in Kaye's House. Fifty-three unique girls, not easy to sum up in a few words - each girl has something incredible to offer to this amazing house. We may not always win, but damn we've got spirit. You will always know when the Kaye's girls are coming to an interhouse event, as we run up screaming at the top of our lungs, "And did those feet." Because of us being the great Kaye's girls we are... we know we sound good. Just a shout out to Ripley's, our great handsome brothers from another mother. They are as "unique" as we Kaye's girls. Integrity, spirit, passion, friendship, trust and loyalty are the words you will see on the walls as you look around Kaye's common room. This house is truly my home away from home, and I'm so happy I was able to share it with these wonderful fifty-three girls. Through all our achievements, victories and defeat in interhouse events, there are no words to describe the true meaning of Kaye's. In my opinion, Kaye's house is Mama D. Without her, the house would not be the same. She has put so much time and effort into making Kaye's House the way it is today. We all love her very much, and I know that all the grade 12's this year will miss her so much, as we complete the first year of the rest of our lives.

Ripley's is our house. It is the house that makes the boys who live in it what they are. On top of the hill, we're often described as the "ghetto" or the "slums". This is true of our house's appearance, but it is the reason we Ripley's men pride ourselves on being tough. Our house is composed of forty-eight completely different students, and seven amazing staff members. Working together as a group, we continue to make the house run like clockwork. From Mr. Doyle's can-do attitude all the way to our lovely house cleaner Theresa, who treats us as if we are her own kids, year after year they look at the new boys waiting to be molded into men. Five years is a long time to spend in one house, but I have loved every last minute of it. Speaking with former alumni of Shawnigan and Ripley's house, there is nothing better than coming back and seeing the house we have lived in for so long standing tall and proud and remaining a predominant memory in the lives of each one of us. People often describe us as untamed creatures. We are wild beyond imagine. We do to others as we wish to be done to us. We stand tall always, and we never fall apart. Progression is a big part of life and as our house, and the men who live in it progress, we will always have the knowledge that Alexander Bailey Ripley is watching over us and making sure we fit the description of a Ripley's man.

May Ripley's house forever stay supreme, and remember "Double Blue Can Do".

The players change but the cause remains; the same cause that fills our hallways each and every day - Growth. Growth as a house and growth as an individual, they are one and the same. As a house, we have the urge to make our brotherhood bigger, tighter and stronger. Every problem an individual has is a problem for everyone in this house. If it is academics, we will push each other and strive for excellence; if it is sports, we will practice with each other in the scorching hot sun or in the coldest of winter days; and if it's fine arts, we will support and admire. As individuals, we learn to lead by example; we learn to grow and become the people that we want to be. This is where we prove ourselves, from grade 8 to grade 12. We learn to live by the four pillars (Honour, Respect, Integrity and Perseverance). In everything we do we want to reflect our house values. We learn to work hard when we have to and play hard when we are allowed to. We learn to grow from the mistakes we make. Mediocrity is not in our vocabulary; we constantly fight to raise the bar higher.

This is how we grow - this is Duxbury.

It is hard to explain in just a few words what Strathcona has become this year. At the beginning of the year, when the new girls came into the house, everyone was so shy. It was so different from what you witness today. At the beginning of the year we were just a house, a building with 51 beds. As the year progressed, bonds formed, strong and lasting friendships. We became like sisters; one big family. I have never laughed as hard as when I'm with my Strathcona girls: rolling on the floor in hysterics, recollecting stories of the year. I hope the memories we have will never leave our hearts; that the bonds of friendship will never break. I will never forget the grade 8's, and hope they never leave their mischievous ways. To the grade 9's who never stop talking, even with tape over their mouths, I hope you continue to share the memories. To the grade 10's, who love their drama but love their friends just as much, I know you will keep those friendships strong. The wonderful grade 11's who have so much excitement and energy. I know you will do an amazing job of leading the house. Last but not least, the Grade 12's. It has been an amazing year. Strathcona will always be a part of us. I want to thank the staff of Strathcona for such a great year. A special thanks to Ms. Beare and Ms. Connolly. Not only did you make this a home for us, but you cared for each of us like your own children. Yes, we were just a house at the start, but now when one Strathcona girl meets another somewhere on campus, we ask, "Are you going home?" because Strathcona is not our house, it's our home.

Over my years at Shawnigan, Lake's House has truly become my home. Shawnigan has formed me into an individual, and allowed me to achieve what I never thought possible. I have helped to lead 48 boys through what has been one the busiest and hectic years in Shawnigan history, but in every way it was worth it. I spoke with one of our grade 8's and told him how lucky he was to have 5 whole years of experiences ahead of him. The people we see in the dormitories today are not the same people we will see two years from now. Shawnigan, and especially Lake's House, has that power over us; it can transform us. Lake's House is a place filled with history, a home whose halls are lined with the faces of great men. When I arrived in grade 10, I was awkward, untalented, and a poor public speaker. This school has molded me into an individual, a person who is not afraid of his own abilities nor afraid to help others find theirs. Lake's is truly a home to me, and it always will be. I will bleed green from this day forward, and I will never forget the brothers this House has given me. On one of my first days at this school, I remember speaking with Mr. Anderson about how I was enjoying Shawnigan so far. I told him I was nervous, that I could not see myself being like the great men I saw graduating that year. "Don't worry," he told me, "You'll do well here. After all, you're in Lake's House."

I am a part of Lake's, and Lake's will always be a part of me.

SKI WEEK

JAN 29TH TO FEB 3RD

SOUTHTH AFRICA

Going to Africa has to include seeing the Big Five (the most dangerous animals to track on foot: lion, cheetah, elephant, Cape buffalo, rhinoceros). The Shawnigan students who visited Africa created lesson plans and taught children who sat in rapt attention about the 5 R's (Refuse, Reduce, Reuse, Recycle, Recover). They engaged in cleaning up and teaching about the value of wetlands. They helped out in scientific research with a South African marine biologist to catch, measure and return mosquito fish that are causing changes in the estuaries near Knysna.

For one week they got dirty fixing muddy roads, cleaning the elephant boma (big elephant poo!) and yes, they did see the Big Five – one really lucky strike – two cheetahs feasting on an ostrich. The viewing truck was only 20 feet away from the big cats! From the reserve they went to Cape Town where they saw many sights, visited many sustainable projects and climbed Table Mountain. What a view – and a wonderful way to end a fantastic trip!

From October 29 to November 6, ten Grade 10 students went on a cultural exchange to Tokyo. Hosted by the families of students from Azabu High-school, the Shawnigan students were immersed in Japanese life for an action-packed week. Traveling were: Sean Mochan, Emerson Chen, Savannah Glennie, Sam James, Patrick Hyde-Lay, Grace Seely, Michael Arcilla, Laura Beth Gill, Michael Kim, Stephen Wyatt. Staff: Mr. Holland, Ms. Krayenhoff, Mr. Wright.

In the spring of 2011 the Chapel had a visit from Daniel Edeh, founder of the Mission of Mercy orphanage in Nigeria. We were so moved by his description of the orphanage that we asked how we could help. "We desperately need a truck!" he told us. A few short months later, money was raised and the truck was purchased.

Chapel

One of the things that makes Shawnigan unique is our commitment to nurturing our spirits as well as our minds and bodies. And what nourishes our spirits? Music, laughter, prayer, friendship and silence. While these things aren't limited to any one time or place, Chapel is the place where we have come to expect them, where we look forward to them. This has been a year in which the Chapel has provided these things again and again. From the very first service, the Chapel walls have resounded with our singing as never before. We have laughed at the antics of the Shawnigan toddlers and we have cried at stories of courage in the face of immense difficulties. We have rejoiced in the talents of our school mates and been bathed in their poetry and music. We have shared prayer and silence, and our community has grown as a result. As chaplain, I can only say again what a privilege it is to be a part of it.

The Reverend Jim Holland

The Drama Department presented two plays this year, both engaging and entertaining, but vastly different tales of people trying to live out their dreams.

The first was The Curious Savage by John Patrick, a heart-warming comedy about the widowed Mrs. Savage, who is institutionalized by her step-children because she is dwindling away their inheritance on a memorial fund meant to help others realize their hopes and dreams.

The second was The Elephant Man (performed after Yearbook press deadline) by Bernard Pomerance, the true story about the life of John Merrick, a horribly disfigured young man, discovered by a doctor at a freak show, who becomes a favourite of the London aristocracy while only wanting to become a man like any other.

Thailand 2012

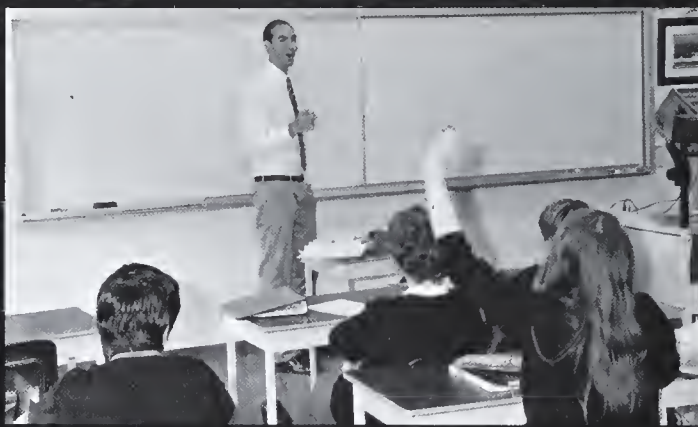

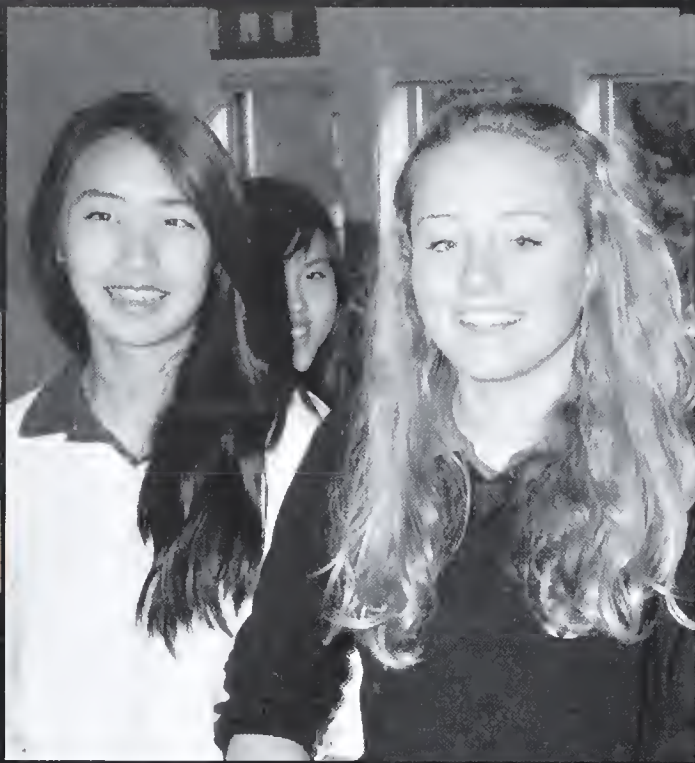

Twelve grade 11 students, along with Mr. Yates and Miss Agate, headed to Thailand for 3 weeks this spring. This is the 8th year of the EDGE program heading to Thailand and the 4th year students from Shawnigan have found themselves at Ban Naoe Learning Centre in the most northern part of Thailand. This year, our SLS EDGE Team fundraised towards a student kitchen for the hill tribe students that attend Ban Naoe. Arriving at the school, our students spent 10 days working to construct the kitchen they had raised the funds for. Not only did our students get a chance to see the fruits of their fundraising efforts, but the cultural exchanges and friendships made a priceless experience that they will carry with them for the rest of their lives.

France 2012

For two weeks, 15 students and the Receveauxs headed off to Angers, France for the inaugural bilingual exchange between Canada and France. After two amazing, fatiguing weeks of intense translation, we all had something to go home with and cherish forever. It is always difficult to become accustomed to a new culture, but one can honestly say that the group of SLS students came away with a greater appreciation for the French culture and way of life. One of the major keys in life is to embrace the differences we possess in this world, and that is precisely what the group accomplished. After a successful visit with the students at Lycee Sacre Coeur, we were able to host them less than a week after our return. And they reported having a fabulous time on our campus!

Once again, we are fortunate to have dedicated and diverse teachers in the Socials Studies Department. This year, Grade 11 students entered the Literary and Poster Contest sponsored by the Royal Canadian Legion. This national annual contest fosters the tradition of Remembrance amongst Canadians. A cross-curricular project with the English Department involved students reading Three Day Road, a Canadian novel set during the First World War. It is hoped that this collaborative venture will continue in the future. The AP Human Geography classes took their annual hike up Mt. Baldy in beautiful weather conditions. The students were able to get clear views all the way to Victoria and beyond. Back in the classroom, comparisons were made with maps on Google Earth. Grade 8 students continued the tradition of taking some time out of the regular curriculum to study the history of Shawnigan Lake School. A highlight was the visit to the School Archives and Museum. Co-curricular opportunities for students to further develop their skills and knowledge in the social sciences abound. Shawnigan students participated in a debate tournament focusing on the resolution that Palestine should be recognized as a member state of the United Nations. At the University of Victoria's annual Model United Nations, nearly twenty students assumed the roles of national delegates to various United Nations committees. Eleven students participated at McGill University's conference drawing students from all over the world.

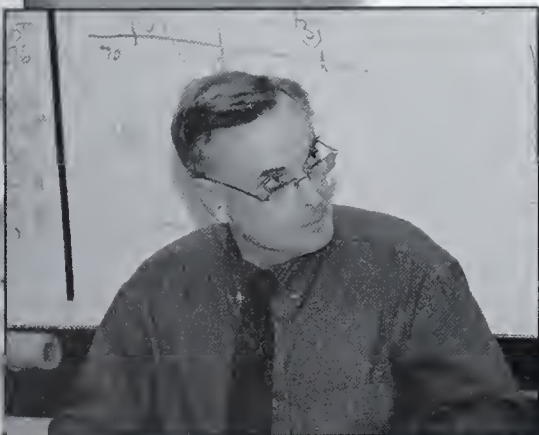

The year opened with an afternoon of vigorous paddling off the Cowichan shore, giving everyone in the department a chance to try their kayaking skills, share stories, and reflect on challenges and opportunities ahead. Arranged by Mr. Yates and Ms. Ferris, the day of sunshine eased us into the year with much laughter. The Vancouver Writers' Festival, always one of the highlights of the year for Mr. Connolly's Writing 12 class, this year featured Russell Banks. And then after Christmas, students in grades 10-12 were provided a special treat one evening. Internationally-renowned Slam Poet, Anis Mojgani packed The Wilkinson Theatre staying behind after his performance to chat with students about his work.

Reading seems a "feast or famine" reality and so we're taking field trips to Bucknuck's, a local used books emporium, where Cam the owner will guide students to shelves full of fantasy, mystery, contemporary non-fiction, and only steps away from Drumroaster's. Finally, the department opened up the Writing Centre two evenings a week. Located in the North Lab and staffed by our new intern, Ms. Andrea Rushton and Mr. Kingstone, the Centre provides a comfortable study environment for students eager to improve their writing.

The Mathematics Department aims to have students discover a variety of problem-solving strategies that will allow those with different strengths and ability levels to attack unfamiliar problems with confidence. Problem forms include both theoretical and practical and, hopefully, we create an environment in which students work together to experience several methods of problem solution, and thereby develop a variety of problem-solving strategies. Creative problem solving emphasizes reasoning skills, requires use of concepts from previous years of mathematics study or general experience, or involves several steps that will always be a useful tool for students, whether in a classroom or not. We hope that students will increase their confidence with mathematics, discover a hidden talent for mathematics, develop an ability to persevere through a problem and experience the ingenuity that is involved in problem solving. They will grow through their collaborative work and be able to bring their independent efforts to the whole. Through student effort and teacher guidance, students increase their overall competence with mathematics. Teachers also continue to add new strategies and techniques to their repertoires.

The Shaw Centre was the focus of many interesting events this year. Whether launching rockets, detonating explosives or looking at the stars, there were plenty of activities and experiments to ignite everyone's curiosity. Some of the highlights included the Physics trip to California sponsored by Mr. and Mrs. Lane. This trip really helped to demonstrate the relevance of some of the more abstract and modern topics in physics. We also participated in some science outreach by acting as student judges for the local First Lego League competition. Under the leadership of Mr. Noble, the science department serves as a hub for the school's environmental programs. Students benefit from long standing programs such as the fish hatchery, as well as new programs such as the community garden. Further experiences for students at the Bamfield Marine station help senior students make links between their course work and the environment. Many Shawnigan graduates experience success and satisfaction in scientific careers. This inspires current students and faculty alike.

What would the school look like without the Fine Art electives? Where would the colour be. For many, the electives - Music, Art, Drama, Woodwork, Computer Graphics and Architectural Drafting - provide a welcome change of pace to the demands of life at Shawnigan. They are a place to learn life long skills, a place to develop original thinking, a place to practice discipline, patience and perseverance, a place to risk and a place to feel proud of accomplishments. Not all will become masters of the Arts, but all can learn to appreciate the beauty and majesty of the creative spirit. Long may they flourish at Shawnigan.

Learning another language and being able to function in it is an essential component of our multi-cultural world. Without a doubt, this enterprise helps us to a deeper understanding of other cultures and even of our own. In addition, there are a myriad of cognitive and social benefits. In striving to increase opportunities, we have offered German this year, in addition to our traditional courses in French, Spanish and Mandarin. Some students even avail themselves of our Saturday morning Japanese classes. As committed language teachers, we are always examining ways to provide real-life language learning. To this end, 2012 saw us embark on a successful exchange with Le Lycée Sacré Cœur in Angers, France. It can truly be said, that we are providing some first-class and authentic linguistic opportunities for all.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

Physical Education
Department:
A. Doyle; D. John; T. Murdy;
J. Williams

The Physical Education Department introduces grade 8 and 9 students to the many different athletic opportunities that are available at Shawnigan throughout the school year. We try to organize these units of activity around the three competitive seasons of play. The focus here is on skill development, an understanding of the rules and concepts of the game and, most importantly, fun. It is our hope that the extra time spent in class will allow students to be more successful with their various extra-curricular sports.

Also this year, we are putting a major emphasis on improving the student body's physical conditioning. In order to achieve this goal the junior grades will have a large fitness component to their program. At the senior level this goal will be achieved with the grade 10 elective, Sport Science, and the grade 11 and 12 elective, Human Performance. The students in both of these programs work on sport-specific preparation.

The Planning and Business departments are all about preparing Shawnigan students for the rest of their lives. Planning 10 explores questions such as: Where are you going to university? What are you going to study? How do you prepare, and live within, a budget? How do you deal with banks and other financial institutions? How do you stay active and healthy? For the majority of our students, these are adult concerns, and hence not highly relevant. But the information they learn now will serve them for the rest of their lives. The ultimate question is: When do you want to start taking responsibility for your own life and future? There's no time like the present. University choices and applications are just around the corner.

Entrepreneurship 12 students operate and manage the Stag Cafe while learning the basics of running a business. They undertake a step-by-step journey through running a successful enterprise. It is an experience of the real world, and one that is appreciated by the hungry schoolmates they feed!

Library is also a Fine Art

Lizzie Yates and Giselle Hunt are the Library Helpers in this after school program.

In the centre of the main building is the Library, the heart of our School. Here, students come to investigate resources for assignments; access online databases, study quietly, do group work, or pursue recreational reading interests. Our Librarians, Mrs. Stroebel and Mrs. Lane are dedicated to being knowledgeable, helpful, and encouraging. Our Library is filled with the most current books, both in fiction and non-fiction, and we are embracing the world of e-books. Our successful birthday book programme helps enhance our collection by providing us with resources honour specific student and staff requests. As well as curricular support, we pursue excellence in formal academic writing by teaching proper essay formatting, citation, annotated bibliographies, and evaluation of sources. We are excitedly looking forward to our new Library which will be ready for the School's 2016 centenary, and are optimistic that ground will be broken in the summer of 2013!

The library is also a wonderful place to sit, relax and immerse oneself in a book, magazine or newspaper.

The Learning Centre continues to grow in popularity with. It is a hub of activity from early morning until 9 pm, several nights a week. Whether it's extra support needed for physics, math, studying, or writing a test, there are always teachers and subject specialists ready to help. The Learning Centre team consists of Valerie Donahue, the Director, Evo Marcon, Jennifer Hutchins, Judy Lane, Gillian Coy, and Eric Venables. Working collaboratively with our interns, this team makes a world of difference for our students. Typically, students who receive learning support, require assistance with organization, prioritizing subject assignments, studying for tests, or re-teaching of concepts. The Learning Centre is a wonderful source for extra support, team building, increasing self-confidence and learning how to study. Shawnigan Lake School students are fortunate to have easy access to extra support. Our evening support team consists of Dean Addison, an engineer and software specialist and Freddie Mullin, a former alum and math and physics specialist. As a wise person once said, "There is no elevator to success. You have to take the stairs". So, if you haven't climbed the stairs to the second floor of the main building, try it. The Learning Centre is here for you!

ANIMATION

Talent, innovation, patience and hard work are integral to the creative process behind Animation. Students use stop motion animation to create films, alone or as part of a team. Only the imagination limits the materials they use: chalk, plasticine, Lego, sand, cut-out paper, found objects, rocks and even the students' bodies. After editing the short movies, students add a sound track. The whole process enhances a young person's imagination, team-work and storytelling abilities; all skills that enrich life as a whole.

This year, as in the past, the fine art concert band stepped out of the box somewhat by offering Band in both the fine art block as well as one evening per week. During our fine art blocks, Juniors and Seniors were separated to allow for more sectional instruction and it all came together on Thursday evenings where we had a very large ensemble. The objective behind the Thursday offering was to allow those students not able to fit music into their busy timetables, or those who wanted to take a double fine art, the option of doing both. We had a very talented ensemble this year. Our opening concert of the year was our performance at International Week, where we played pieces from all over the world. In the new year, the festival circuit was the objective. We attended the Cowichan, University of Victoria and Alberni, Vancouver Island band festivals. Overall, it was a very busy year.

The Independent Music program continues to give students the opportunity to study their instruments during fine art time. The purpose of the program is to offer students with busy timetables the chance to devote some time to practising. The group this year was accomplished and extremely motivated, representing both classical and popular styles. We worked individually or in small groups to supplement private lessons and prepare for performances. Each student was required to perform at least once a term, but this could take the form of an exam, a recording, or a public recital. This year, many Independent Music students took exams with the Royal Conservatory of Music, attended the local music festival in Duncan, or played in the chapel or at small concerts. With significant improvement in the skills of all participants and dozens of stunning performances, we had a very successful year.

The Concert Choir is the larger of the two school choirs. With participants from Grades 8-12, this is a place where students with a passion to sing come together with a common objective. We sang at Founder's Day and, joined by the staff choir, we created a wonderfully fun atmosphere for the candle light service at International Week. During the Christmas season we spread Christmas joy by carolling in the local community. Many of us learnt new songs. Our main objective in this choir is to have fun with our peers and develop a real love for all music. We strive to perfect each piece of music as much as we possibly can. This year we have been privileged to be joined by the prep school, and have enjoyed having them help make our choir stronger. We practice once a week on Wednesday for one hour after dinner and have thoroughly enjoyed the memories we have created.

CHOIR

A student-run business mentored by Mr. Strobel, Stag Café is a highlight in Shawnigan Lake School life. Operating on Tuesday and Friday evenings, students on both sides of the serving counter enjoy the Stag Café. Those on the kitchen side learn business and culinary skills that will serve a life time. As well, Stag Café 'staff' enjoy providing the kind of food their fellow teens love. Those purchasing food . . . well, what's the customer feedback?

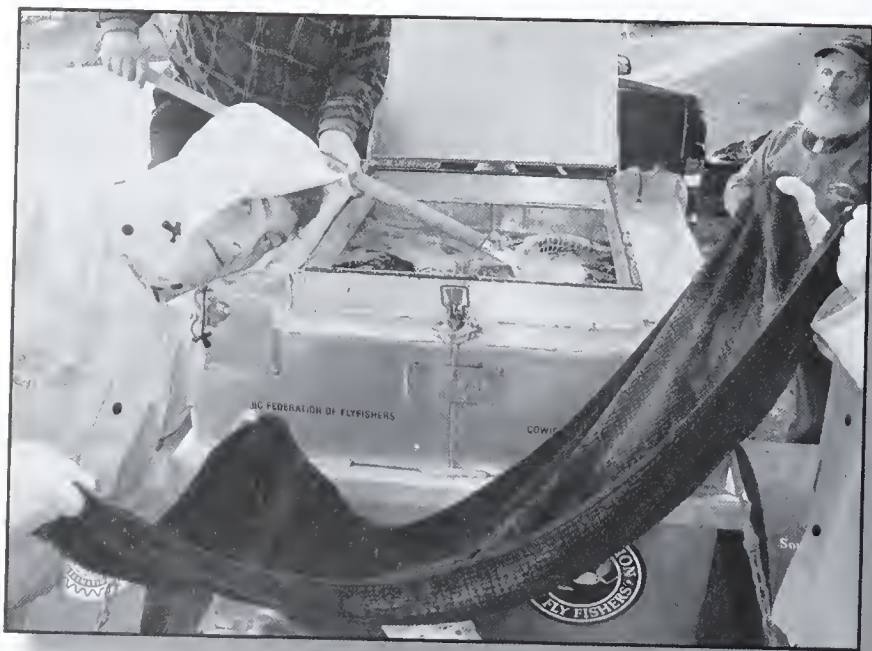

Two thumbs up!

When I first came to Shawnigan last year, I had no idea what fine art to choose from. I ended up picking dance, and it was definitely the right decision. I've been dancing since I was little, and I loved that I didn't have to give that up while I was at school. Dance as a fine art is mostly hip-hop and a bit of jazz, but there are also extra classes with the Barre None studio available to students, so there's many styles to choose from. With Mrs. McLeod as the teacher the classes are always fun, which makes me look forward to the days I get to dance.

-A happy dance student

DANCE

The Environment Club is all about growth. Our campus is now on its way back, regenerating the big thick lush forest it was before the Hartl family cultivated the fields where our school now stands. Our world famous recycling program, with the help of the students and under the guidance of the Environment Club, has met all the goals set out by the Club, and we actually have surpassed them! Every Fine Art day in the Environment Club is not just another day, but actually a time for our school's growth, and the growth of our spirits. An afternoon in the Environment Club is full of surprises and challenges set out for us by our teacher, Mr. Noble. We remove hedges of invasive species, restore salmon populations, and throughout our journey, we learn how to love nature and its beauty. Through our Club's efforts, we hope to create a greener and more eco-friendly campus and we are not alone - some of our parent contribute in their own way to create a better place for us. Growth is change for the best, and at Shawnigan, we create change for the good. At Shawnigan, one thing will never change: the Enviro Club is about growth!

Zero Mile Food is a new fine art at Shawnigan. The emphasis of the program is on creating our own food through grass roots projects. The inaugural projects include a chicken coop designed by students to ethically house 30 chickens, a smoke house for curing meats and cheeses, a wood fired pizza oven, an underground oven, and a duck pond designed by students which reclaims unused marsh land through the process of small scale dyke building. Our goal for this first year is simple, get the projects up and running and then make some lunch.

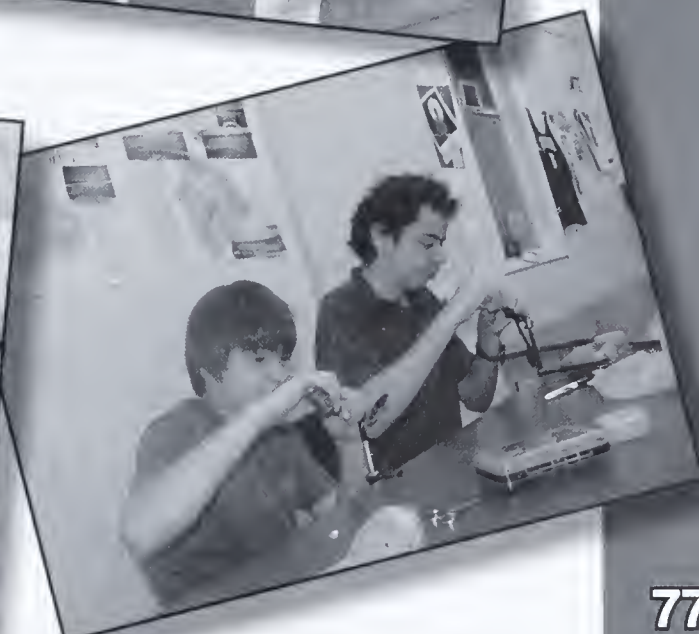

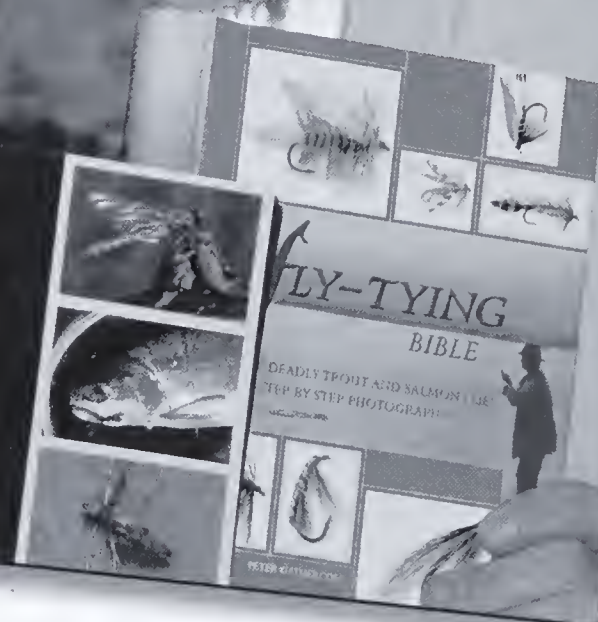

SEWING

With the new Renfrew House rising on the site of our former sewing room, we set up shop in cozy temporary quarters in the lower level of the Theatre. Everything is certainly close at hand! It is a bright, cheerful space. We have seen beginners grow into sewers who are confident with patterns, a needle and thread; while those with more experience have further developed their skills. The group has produced pajama shorts and pants too numerous to count, along with pillow covers, bags, skirts, costumes, sweaters, shirts, bathrobes, and a huge variety of dresses. The music-filled room is always abuzz with the relaxed conversations of busy workers. Because of our cozy setting, everyone has also grown in attitudes of sharing, adaptability and lending a hand to others. So, even though in a smaller "pot", Sewing has blossomed in 2011-2012!

Like the multiple pockets in a fishing jacket, there are many aspects to fly tying. Initially, students learn about the relationship between an aquatic insect's life cycle and a fish's diet. Then, they learn how to imitate nature by creating ties out of feathers, hair and other strange and interesting materials. Finally, they learn to master how to cast a ridiculously small, hairy hook not only elegantly but with efficient manners, a valued skill among fellow fishermen. Students also get to experience the emotional as well as the tasty rewards of salmon fishing.

Successful candidates for Fly Tying have a passion for the outdoors, desire to contemplate nature, and the capacity to put a cell phone away for several hours.

FLY TYING

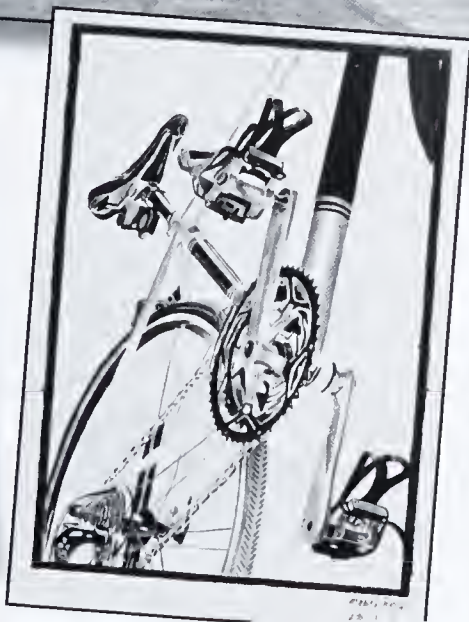

COMPUTER GRAPHICS

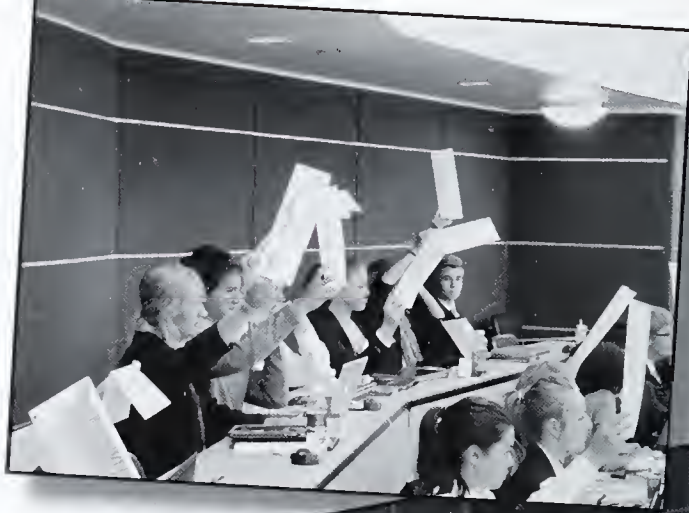

Handmade graphics was a journey into the unknown for the computer graphics students. With sketchbooks, pencils, erasers and black ink in hand they drew their names using a font they liked and then illustrated it with doodles and symbols to suit their personalities. Once they were happy with their illustrations they scanned them into the computer and further refined them using the skills they gained in the first half of the class. Besides the hand-drawn graphics, the juniors and seniors developed and honed their Photoshop skills.

“Oh cool” was an oft-heard expression when students learnt something new. When the students weren’t drawing they were creating dual images of themselves, morphing animals, creating web banners and learning that graphic design is more than just pretty pictures pulled from the internet.

You can hear a pin drop. Heads are down, eyes and hands actively searching for just the right line, just the correct depth of tone, or that one swift mark that will reveal an ear, a wing, or a bicycle wheel. Concentration is palpable as students know what they want and set out to reach for it. Not easy... to make a flower look like a flower, to capture the nuanced expression on a face or the energy of an athlete. Not easy to control the shading; not easy to understand proportion or convincingly articulate an object in space. From the minute they walk in, busy bustling illustrators are ready for an afternoon of drawing. It's not all about hard focusing when the students are working, all around the room, chatting and drawing and warm support can be heard and felt from a mile away. All of them are a happy pile of people all challenging themselves to improve their illustration skills.

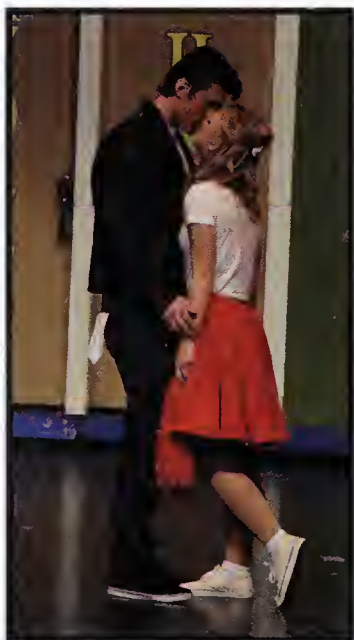

Bearing in mind that the skills to express oneself precisely and politely, and to disagree civilly with another opinion are a necessity in our world;
 Noting that not every student is blessed with the same talents;
 We, the participants of Model UN think that it helps to improve the skills of students to express themselves, enables students to disagree with another opinion in a respectful manner, strongly encourage every student who is interested in improving the skills named above to give Model UN and debating a try. We thank the community of Shawnigan Lake School for its support and we hope this support never ends.
 We would like to congratulate all of the Model UN and debating group members for the spirit they have shown.

Things are always exciting in the Photo Club as nothing beats the total control of shooting, processing and printing a photograph using film and paper. This year we added a new dimension with the donation of a 4x5 large format camera, and a step into the digital world with a professional grade ink-jet printer capable of 17x22 inch prints. Now photo students can expand their knowlege of photography to the digital side and create salon quality prints from their more modern cameras. Photographic art is fun and challenging and many unusual and visually stunning pieces have been created this year.

Musical Theatre helps foster sustained focus, coordination, and teamwork, as well as just being the most fun you can have! Within a very short time frame, we lead our cast to a performance that they can be proud of. Audience members consistently comment on the energy and delight displayed by our performers. Rehearsals begin in September with choreography and vocals and by the time the set appears in February, we have put most of the play together. The performances are held in the local Cowichan Theatre before audiences that number over 500. Being part of a Broadway musical creates a lasting memory of our students' high school experience.

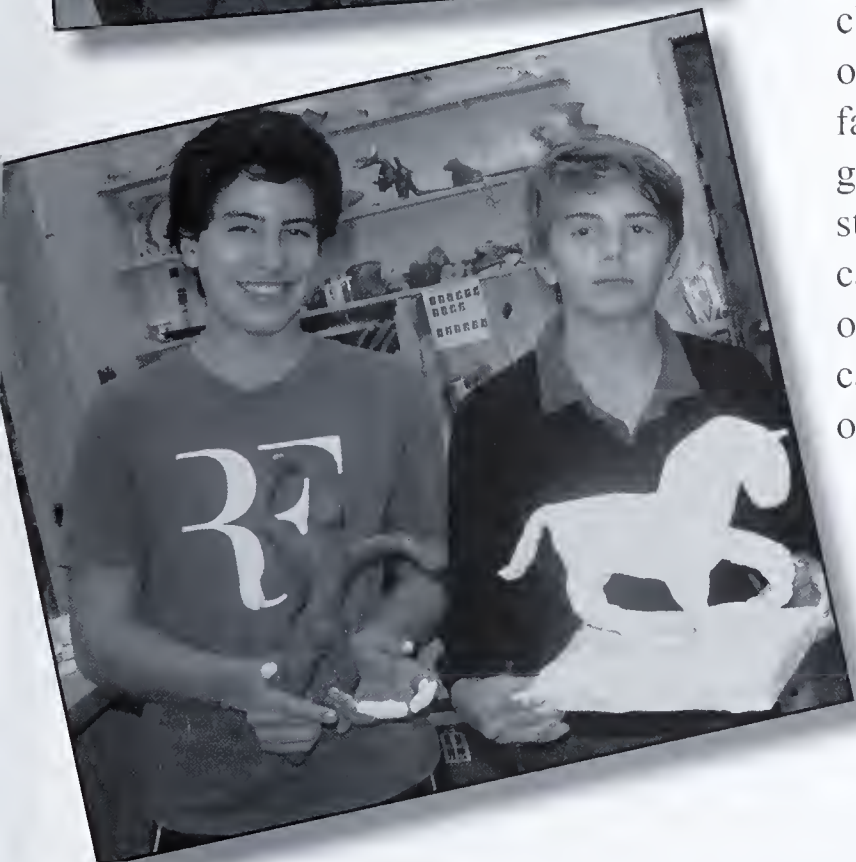

Grease™

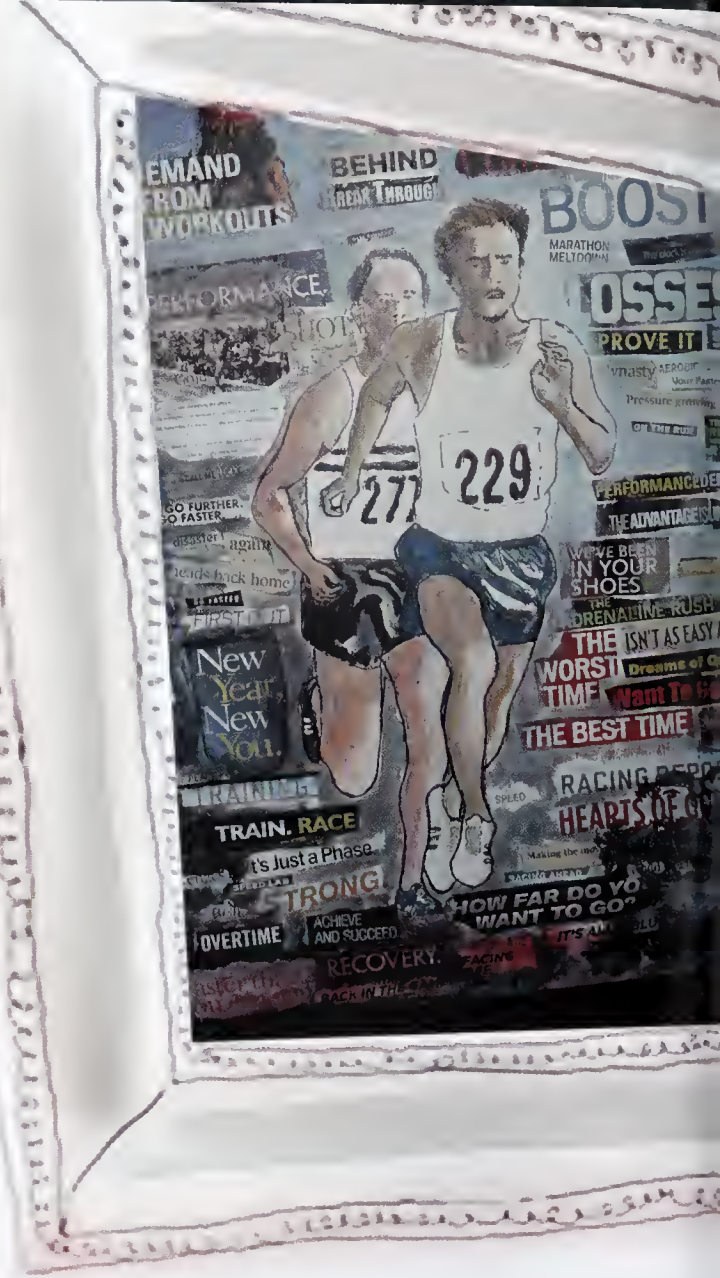

POTTERY

Who doesn't love getting their hands on clay? It's soft, pliable material easily awakens a sense of play, bringing out the child in all of us. However, it can be challenging to create an object that is both visually pleasing and structurally sound. As the year progresses, students learn basic hand building and wheel throwing techniques, and as their skills increase, so does the complexity of their creation. Regardless of whether their pieces are functional or purely sculptural, quality of design is always stressed. It is important that growth occur not only during the construction process, but also in the finishing stages of work. A wide variety of decorating techniques are fully explored. Finally, students have an opportunity to experiment with several firing techniques, ranging from traditional wood fires to the ancient practice of Raku. Each method provides students with an opportunity to explore and grow.

Many of the sculpture students were drawn to this activity because they liked the soapstone sculptures that were displayed at the sign up event. They discovered that working with soapstone isn't all that easy but weeks later, dusty and tired they held a beautiful smooth simple form that they had carved, chipped, filed and sanded to perfection. Other projects were made specifically for Christmas as the seniors tried their hand at a bit of glass etching. Embellished mirrors, mugs and other glass objects were produced using the sand blasting booth. After making a "falling figure" using plaster over a tin foil armature the junior students took the technique a step further creating a sculpture of their choosing using the material. What a wonderful range of sculptures were made! A clay portrait project fashioned from a photo of the students' profile was a great way to learn about clay techniques. The senior students made a full size self portrait bust using a cast clay face that was made in a plaster mask mold of their own face. Here's lookin' at you! Where else can you get dirty, laugh a bit, and change rock, paper or mud into art?!!

Some were born to serve, while some serve to be reborn. This idea applies to the Shawnigan Service Club as a whole, and we live by it every minute of the day. It's not uncommon to see a 'Sword-less Samurai' sacrificing themselves for the benefit of others any time during the week. The countless memories that will be forged at places like Sunridge and Clements will never be forgotten. Those who are volunteering in Duncan hop onto the 'Happy Bus', (a nickname that needs no explanation once you've been aboard), and leave any negative energy at the flagpole. On our way into Duncan, we fill the bus with laughter and positive attitude, an attribute that we share with those we are going to serve. In Duncan, we spread ourselves across town, whether it be Clements, an after-school hang-out for the disabled, or Sunridge and Cerwydden, two retirement homes full of stories and history. Once we walk in those doors, we lose ourselves in the contentment of others.

It is amazing to see the students who flock to Homework Helpers for their fine art. This is a wonderful group of senior students who work extremely hard to ensure that their young charges understand and complete their homework. In the process Shawnigan students make a great connection with the children in their local community. Everyone benefits. The little ones and the big ones are always leave with work done and smiles on their faces. Homework Helpers continues to be a fun and friendly environment. . . and a great success.

The successful student in Studio Art is one who consistently has a curiosity in the properties of a wide variety of materials. He or she is willing to work independently and retain a sense of wonder in the unknown possibilities of creating (mostly) two-dimensional art with various materials (for example: water colour, acrylic or oil paints, chalk, charcoal or pastels). He or she also uses an imagination of abstract and realistic designs. Successful students also need to be willing to get their hands 'messy/dirty' in an effort to extend themselves beyond their comfort zones of creativity in an effort to find new ways of expression. Some students work on one piece of art for weeks at a time if that piece needs it, while at other times, a sketchbook or slip of paper is used to jot down a rough idea for future projects. Those who are willing to accept an unsuccessful effort to create something and change course in the project without wasting materials that have already been used are often the most successful artists because they are open to new possibilities as offered by the creative experience or the properties of the materials. In this hive of activity, there is a sense of calm in a relaxed atmosphere, sometimes punctuated with music, sometimes just the hum of brainwaves and the swish of brushes.

This year the textiles group moved locations, going off campus to Leola's Studio in Duncan. Being at the studio opened more space for the students to work and more opportunities to try new things. Leola's studio is complete with a dye kitchen so we started the year using dyed wool and doing a wet felting project which was something new for everyone. The students spend most of their time knitting; they began their knitting this year with simple scarf projects, and have now moved onto more advanced projects such as socks and mittens and exploring different patterns and new stitches in their knitting. Being at the studio allows everyone to take the time to explore different opportunities. The studio is fully equipped with many looms on which some of the students have been able to weave. On warmer days the students are able to use the dye kitchen to dye wool or fabric.

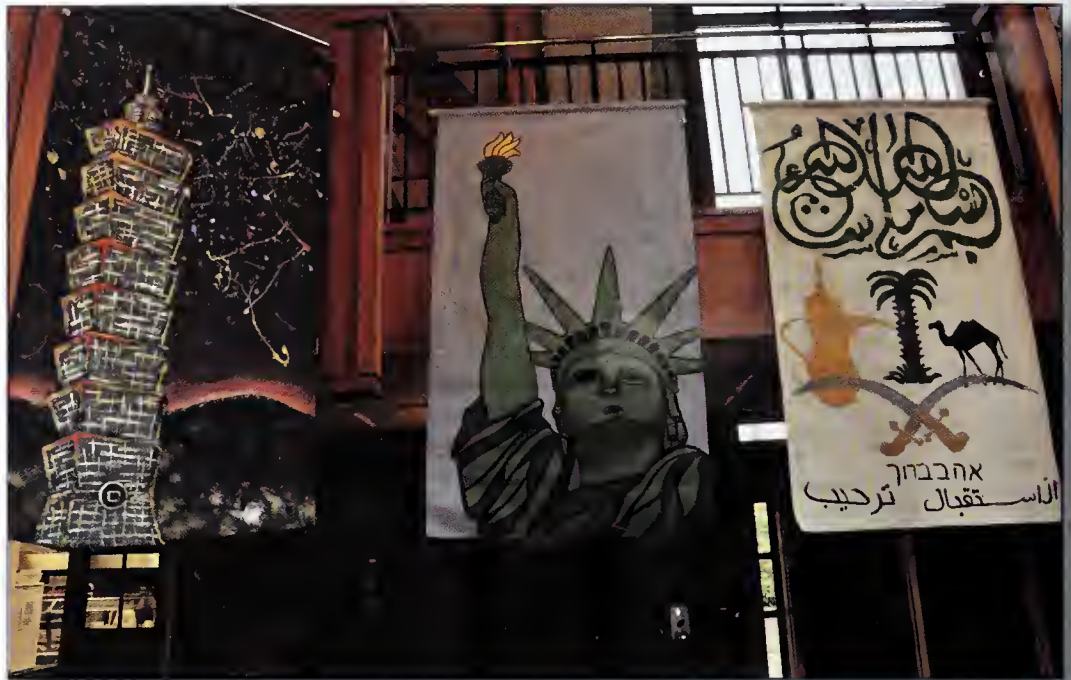

The after school woodwork program is always an ever-changing and interesting place to hang out. Students busy themselves with a wide representation of projects; everything from standard boxes, to funky chest-of-drawers, to picture frames, to homemade, hand-crafted guitars. Basically, the sky's the limit. As Bob the Builder says, "Can we build it? Yes, we can!" Woodwork instructor Brydon Boyce is open to everyone's project ideas. If there's a will, there's usually a way. Students have ample opportunity to use a wide variety of tools and finishing techniques. These are skills that not only will serve them well in the class, but in life in general. In addition to learning valuable skills, students have a great time in this fine art. The atmosphere is relaxed and easy-going, and the music is great to boot!

This year's Boys' Basketball Team fought through many personal adversities in the beginning half of the season to come together in the end and make a valiant strive towards the Island Championship. December proved to be a difficult time as we found ourselves shorthanded through all our tournaments. The highlight was the Los Angeles Tour which saw us play some very good teams from the Beverly Hills and Compton areas of Southern California; an experience that will not be easily forgotten. The post-Christmas preparation was highlighted with very entertaining rival games against Brentwood and St. Michaels University. The School hosted a record amount of games this year capping it with the South Island Championship. The team lost a critical game versus SMUS by two points. All the best to the graduating players this year who gave so much of themselves in order to become better players and team. Thank-you Jackie and David for the 5 years of commitment to the program. Roman, Josh, Jayden, DJ, thank-you for the commitment to excellence. Hopefully, lessons well-learned this past year will enlighten the returning players next year to higher levels.

Basketball Coaches

Junior Girls: Ronni Brown, Justine Beselt

Senior Girls: Darrin Austin, Mike Rea

Boys Gr. 8's: Roddy Craig

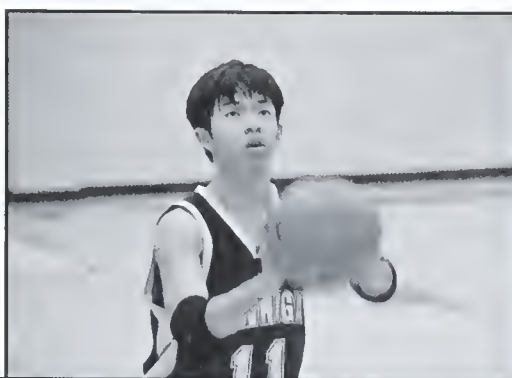

Junior Boys: Jason Lam

Senior Boys: Vito Pasquale Alex Duford

Despite achieving mixed results throughout the regular season, the Sr. Girls' Basketball team played extremely well at the South Island Tournament winning its final three games of that tournament in impressive fashion. Consequently, the team advanced to the Island Championships for the 1st time in over three years.

- Mr. Austin

“The junior girls had a fantastic year lead by their captains Blakely Campbell and Taylor Hamm. With tournaments on the Island and in Vancouver the team faced some of the best in the province. They came first in the mid-island division qualifying for Islands. The girls should be very proud of what they accomplished this season and how much they improved.”

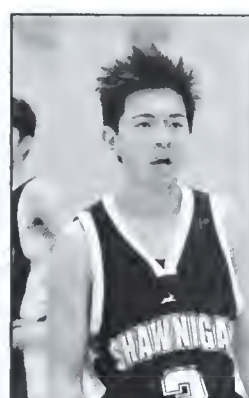

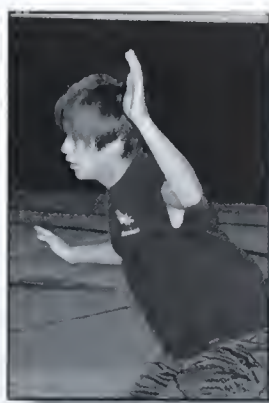

- Mrs. Brown

“It is about how the team can come together and make such progress throughout the season, one basket at a time.”

- Alexis Hougen

As a new team coming together in November for the first time, the Grade 8 boys faced off against some teams who had been playing together for several years. There was a good team spirit amongst us and we set off into the season with high hopes.

Once we had been exposed to a higher level of competition, and adjusted to a faster pace of game than some of us were used to, we really began to show, in patches, what we were capable of. Unfortunately our league play was characterized by some narrow losses, with a margin of less than 5 points in several games. Over the course of the season it was great to watch players develop their skills and carve out a role within the team.

The season ended with the ISA championships in February, at Collingwood School in Vancouver. This was a further step up in the quality of opposition and has given the whole team the goal of becoming much more competitive next year. A well done to Team Captain, Malcome Hewstan; Most Valuable Player, Nathan Bice; and Most Improved Player, Chris Lor.

-Mr. Craig

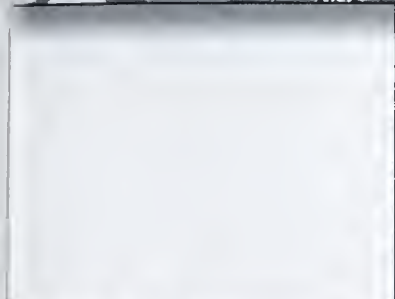

“You’ll always miss 100 percent of the shots you don’t take.”

- Chris Lor

The Junior Girls Volleyball team had one goal this year: to qualify for the Island Championships in Parksville. Shawnigan has never sent a Junior Girls Volleyball team to the Islands. So armed with style and pizzazz, we accomplished our goal with an epic come-back victory against Brentwood. Down 22-14 in the first set, we battled back to steal the first game 26-24 and we never looked back. The girls showed a tremendous amount of heart and character throughout the season. We can proudly say we are the 8th best team on Vancouver Island. Sonic Boom!

“It’s incredible being a part of a team as it grows from the beginning to the end, each girl bringing their own passion to the team, creating a long lasting, unforgettable bond.”

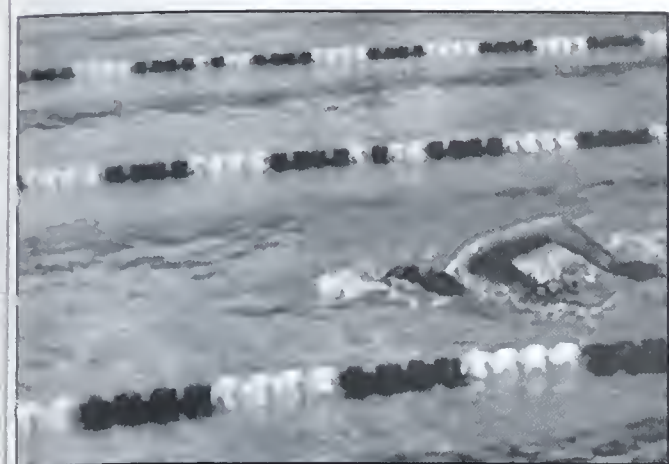

- Tanis Avery

“Activate your core!” - Ms. Barry

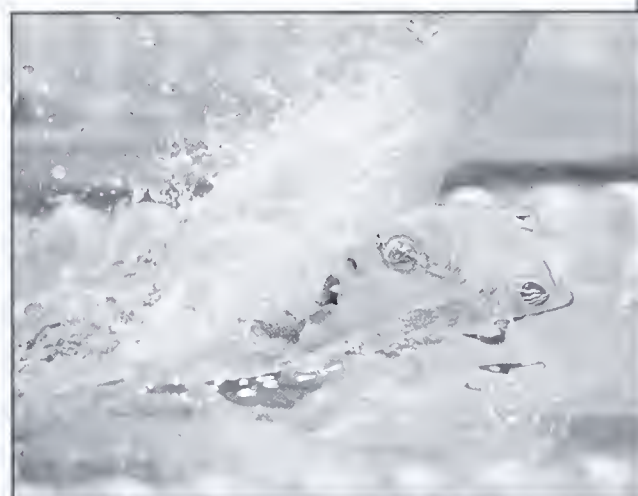

Fitness conditioning with Damaris is challenging and effective. The classes vary, taught to music to help motivate the participants. Classes are a one hour workout, with students striving to work out of their comfort zone, pushing themselves to the max. The students train on an unstable surface to activate the core as much as possible. Each class is a different workout. In Boot Camp, (which includes, skipping, biking, bosu, swiss ball, hurdles, fabric ladders), the students work to their maximum for 1 minute 15 seconds with a 15 second active rest, getting to the next station as quickly as possible. Other classes may include the spin bike, spin bike bosu combo class, bosu swiss ball class. During the third term there is more work done outdoors, to encourage the students to move their bodies without the use of equipment and to breathe in the great outdoors. Using the school campus as our gym we integrate the use of stairs, hills and sometimes pack 10 pounds of extra weight to make it more challenging. Once the students have learned the correct use of the equipment they know they will always break a sweat!

The swimming program started with a splash this year as twenty intrepid and enthusiastic students signed up for this activity offered at the Duncan Aquatic Centre. A number of our students chose to also challenge the Lifesaving Certification Program offered by the centre's professional instructors. This involved classroom instruction as well as drills performed in the pool. Students found this program highly rewarding and fun while building team spirit and group cohesion. The remaining students were coached by a professional Olympic level swimmer who put them through their paces in the pool. Once a week our students also participated in yoga and aerobics classes to ensure that their all-rounded fitness levels were maintained. All in all, a very productive term.

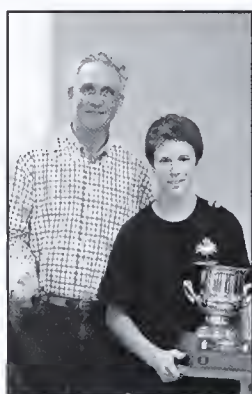

“The water is your friend. You don’t have to fight with water, just share the same spirit as the water and it will help you move.”

The competitive season starts in September and concludes at the beginning of May, so the players are kept very busy throughout the year. Our year got off to a great start with the Shawnigan Junior Open being hosted at the School. This is the first Squash BC sanctioned tournament of the season, and there was an excellent turnout of players from across the Province, in addition to participants from Alberta and Washington. Shawnigan's Brynn Daniels won the Monk Office Trophy and Justin McGaw took home the Gudewill Cup. We were fortunate to have John Hungerford, an alum and staunch supporter, on hand to make the presentations. Other tournaments followed, and there were good performances from Lucas Ravkov, Dorian Lewis-Willie and Chris Miles at the Alberta Jesters Tournament. Shawnigan players also did well at the Canadian Junior Open in Ontario prior to the Christmas holidays. In the 2nd Term, we took part in the BC Junior Open and Closed Championships both held in Vancouver. We also successfully defended our title at the ISA Championships held this year in Victoria. Still to come as the finale to the season are the Junior National Championships which will see the top players heading to Toronto in April. Thanks go to Mike Johnson for his world-class coaching expertise, time and dedication to the squash program. He has been assisted by a team of coaches who have also worked hard to encourage and motivate the players to produce their best squash.

“Tennis begins with love.”

SLS Tennis bounced back from a lacklustre season last year. After his leave, Mr. Candelaria returned to help improve all aspects of the program. Instrumental in our success was the leadership of Ms. Tzircalle, Mr. Hobbs, Head Coach and former Davis Cup player, along with a young touring player, Alden Eakins. Kelly Lai, Ryan Wong, Stephen Wyatt, Michael Tsai and Jack Xie competed in a tough open level singles tournament in November.

At an early team event in Victoria the girls' team of Kelly Lai, Rie Ota and Charlotte Smith learned how tough adult competition can be. The boys' team of Sean Allin, Jack Xie, Sebastian Fernandez and Ryan Wong fared better, winning two of their four ties. All of these players represented both themselves and SLS admirably and put themselves in an advantageous position to perform well in our intramural events, boys' singles, the Grogan Cup, girls' singles, the Chu Cup and mixed doubles, La coupe de toute saison. On behalf of all students in tennis, I would like to recognize our coaches for their dedication and support.

The Shawnigan Lake School Rugby Program has had a very exciting year. This past fall the grade eights and nines had very successful seasons in both the local and independent schools competition. Their hard work paid off by being included as a combined U14 side with the Junior Boys' tour of England and Wales during spring break. During the tour both the Colt A's and U14 sides played four games against some very tough opposition. As part of their touring experience the boys were also able to attend two of the 6 Nations matches. During the winter term we had two groups participate in our rugby skills program which gives those boys a head start going into their spring season of play.

Spring time is rugby time at Shawnigan. We run seven teams during this term including: grade 8, Colt B, Colt A, 3rd XV, 2nd XV, 1st XV and Girls XV. The 1st XV will be working hard trying to defend their third consecutive BC AAA Championship. Also, the 1st XV will be attending the World Youth Rugby Championships taking place in Japan this April.

“When the going got tough, you know, the guys just stayed on that bucking horse, eh; just riding til we got our job done, you know.”

- Danny Hamstra

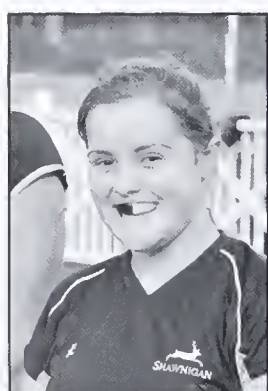

With the Shawnigan hockey squad getting some early practices and extra ice time in, we were able to compete at a much higher level this year. The commitment of the guys and gals in the program allowed us to have strong senior and junior teams. Putting on a real show for the fans, our showcase game was a close battle and a great memory for all. I commend the hockey teams for a fantastic season and an unforgettable re-entry into the Ross Cup tournament. With Coach Morris leading the charge, and new excitement with the addition of Coach Murdy, our season was a major success. It is without doubt that the ice hockey program will continue to increase, both in skill and in number. I look forward to coming to see teams over the years.

Danny Hamstra, Captain

The Field Hockey team this year was a competitive, committed group of girls that competed in a number of games and tournaments. This season was a mix of fun practices, games, and learning experiences. The all learned to do complex techniques and use them in games all the while becoming closer as a group. The girls were willing to improve their fitness and warmed up as a team, encouraging each other towards their goals. They played with a lot of heart, securing a place in the provincials. Once again they displayed their determination, earning a spot in the Champion's pool. They then went on to finishing 1st in the province, the best Shawnigan has ever placed.

“We enjoy the diversity on our field hockey team, and when Mr. K. tries to say teeter totter and says tittit toddler.”

Students in the Outdoors Program have a sense of adventure and a love of nature. They have the opportunity to get out and explore this beautiful part of the world. Activities include rock climbing, camping, canoeing, kayaking and sailing. Students learn through experience about navigation and paddling, about camping and cooking, about the environment and about working as a team. Outdoors offer unique challenges to students who are looking to test themselves. Perhaps most importantly, they learn about their own strength, capacity and courage.

Junior Rowing

Though the bulk of the rowing team's season was not yet upon us at the time of writing, the Shawnigan rowing team has already had much success at the winter and spring regattas. The year started with a January ergometer regatta in the mezzanine of the new gym. With Brentwood College School attending to add some friendly competition, the Shawnigan athletes started the season off with some strong performances, most notably Bayley Wells and Danielle Schmidt who claimed top honours in the Junior categories. In February, though the Hungerford Cup had to be canceled due to wind, Shawnigan crews performed well at the Head of Shawnigan regatta, including top finishes for both the Junior Girls and Junior Boys. The Junior Girls finished first in the 8+ at the Maple Bay Regatta, giving them the confidence needed to drive them into the very competitive Brentwood Regatta. As we move into the busy remainder of the season, we look forward at seeing all Junior Crews show off their skill on the water.

Senior Rowing

The Senior Rowing season started off with an ergometer competition in the gym mezzanine. As winter rowing is known a lot of erg workouts, both the Senior boys and girls showed that they will be a force to reckon with come the spring racing season. Many of the senior rowers came back early from their spring break for the rowing team's annual spring training camp. With Ridley College and Brentwood training by their side, they trained three times per day, for five days. This will no doubt put them into a very competitive division come race time. The camp was followed by the Senior Boys winning the heavyweight four by a wide margin at the Elk Lake Spring Regatta. They are looking forward to a busy and demanding regatta schedule come late April and May. Good luck to all crews!

Throughout the last five years at Shawnigan the Golf Program has grown to new heights. Without the leadership of Mr. Hyde-Lay, Mr. Connolly and the pros at Arbutus Ridge Golf Club, the team would not be where it is. The Shawnigan Golf Program has helped athletes reach their full potential in golf. Being able to play 4 times a week is pretty sweet! The addition of a spring tour to Arizona this year really helped to bring the tournament team closer together. Hopefully, the team will be successful at the BC championships and have many successful tournaments. Good luck to all future Shawnigan golfers!

We had a small team this term, but the results are impressive. Despite the rain, there was strong enthusiasm among the six competitors, all of whom had a solid base of fitness and a genuine desire to work hard. The season featured four races: the Pioneer 8 km, Cobble Hill 10 km, Hatley Castle 8 km and the Cedar 12 km. Noteworthy performances include Neil Dawe's success at Pioneer (31:41) and his breakthrough achievement in the Cobble Hill 10 km (39:24), and Megan Lewis-Schneider's wins at Pioneer (32:10), Hatley Castle (34:35) and Cobble Hill (41:25). Alex Wolfe provided strong support all season, gaining in strength and consistency and earning top-10 finishes in all his races. In addition, Dylan Chu showed great persistence through the season, enjoying his best result at Hatley Castle with a sub-40 minute finish on a very hilly course. We also took advantage of the efforts and enthusiasm of newcomer Isobel Potter, who arrived at the School at Christmas; a very promising junior who won her division in the Cedar 12km. Finally, our veteran runner, Giselle Hunt, continued to improve despite a heavy workload and some late-season illness. These runners I take pleasure in commending and thanking for their enthusiasm and hard work.

-Mr. Kingstone

The Senior Boys Soccer season was highlighted by an undefeated regular season and a second place finish at the Carihi Tournament in Campbell River. The boys played an entertaining style, blending combination play with individual flair. This resulted in some well-taken goals from a variety of different players, many of whom will be returning to the squad next year. With a number of key players missing due to the mid-term break, the team failed to reach its full potential in the playoffs; something next year's team will look to remedy.

Being a late season sport, the other soccer programs were just getting underway at press time for this annual. However the enthusiasm of the teams, and of the coaches (Ms. Rush-ton, Mrs. John and Mr. Fehr) boded well for a fine season.

Shawnigan Prep

We are a group, a team, a program and a family. This is a new and exciting program at Shawnigan. There are eight students in this program this year. William, Ray, Billy, Vincent, Jerry, George, Yuki and Vinna. William is the Head of Shawnigan Prep House.

Cheryl and Joe are the house directors, and they are nice and kind. We live in a big, soft and beautiful house. We study together with the head teacher, Mr. Brown, in the classroom everyday. We have Math, Science, and Social Studies. This is a good place to practice using English. It will help us get more prepared for Shawnigan Lake School. We look forward to joining you!

Grade 8 Expedition

The Grade 8s kicked off the 2011-2012 year with the Horne Lake camping trip led by Mrs. Hutchins, Mrs. Plater, Mr. Yates, and Mr. McDaniel, along with amazing prefects: Macoy Jackson, Vivian Braithwaite, Calvin Jennings, Julianne Henning, Lizzie Yates, Olivier Charron-Duhamel, Logan Louis, and Zak Edmonds. Students had the opportunity to bond with each other, learn about Shawnigan life from the prefects, and experience firsthand, a rugged, yet beautiful, outdoor setting. Our first major activity after lunch was a thirty minute hike, after which we split into groups, exploring the depths of three amazing caves. Our guides were very knowledgeable and the highlight for many was experiencing the total darkness of lights out as well as the glowing phosphorous. Students were able to experience canoeing and rappelling as well. Evening games were led by the prefects, and the campfire entertainment was much loved by all. All students were encouraged to try new things and worked to embrace everybody in the Great 8 class. The trip provided an important opportunity to forge relationships and prepared our new students to navigate through their first term at Shawnigan.

The Grade 8 class continued to meet as a whole class every Wednesday morning, during which time they were involved in a variety of leadership, service, academic support, and health and wellness activities. With almost 50 students in the class, there was never a dull moment!

Dean's Dinner

The Dean's Dinner is a celebration for students who have achieved a minimum of 1.5 effort grade. Translated this means that students who contribute to their learning environment with enthusiasm and commitment are treated to a feast in recognition of their efforts. Three times a year students gather for a special meal prepared by kitchen staff. The event not only recognizes students' efforts but serves to inspire the entire student body to strive for excellence. Attitude is everything, and the Dean's Dinner is a testament to what striving for one's best contributes to the Shawnigan experience.

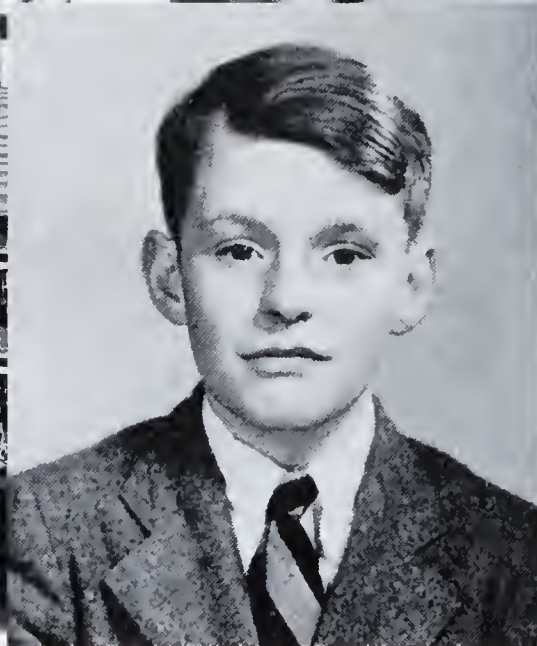

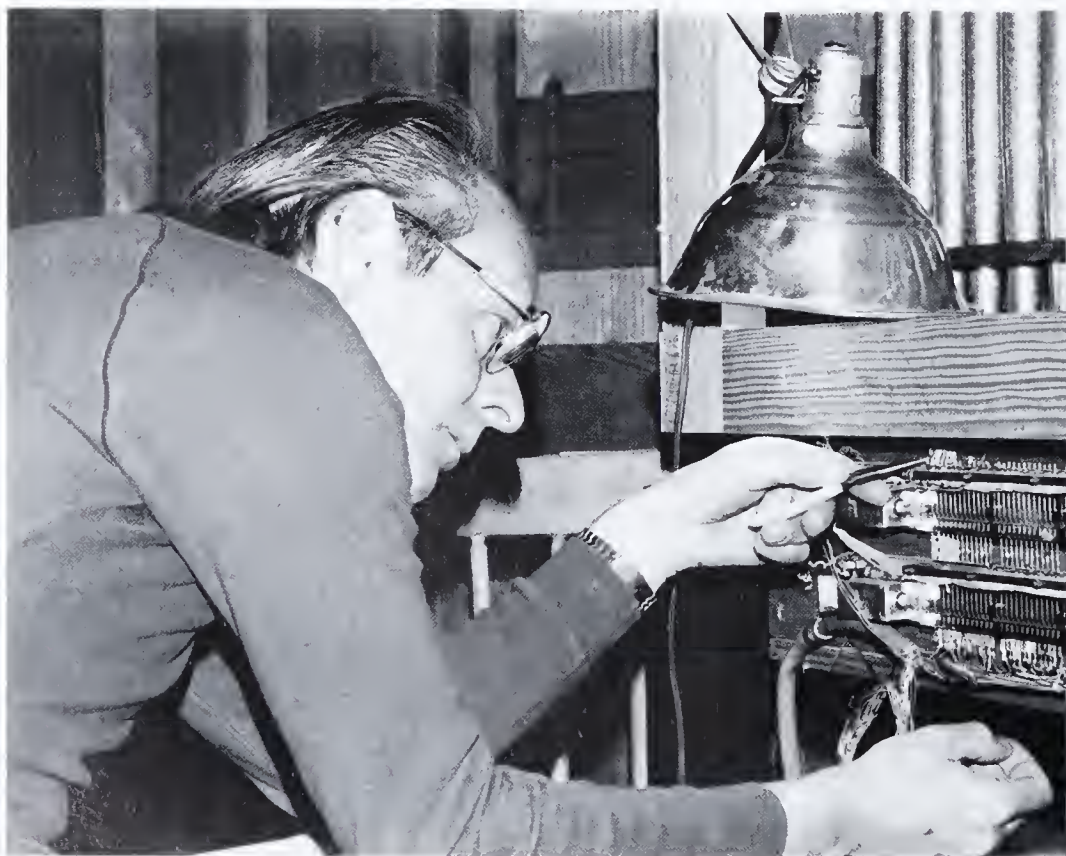

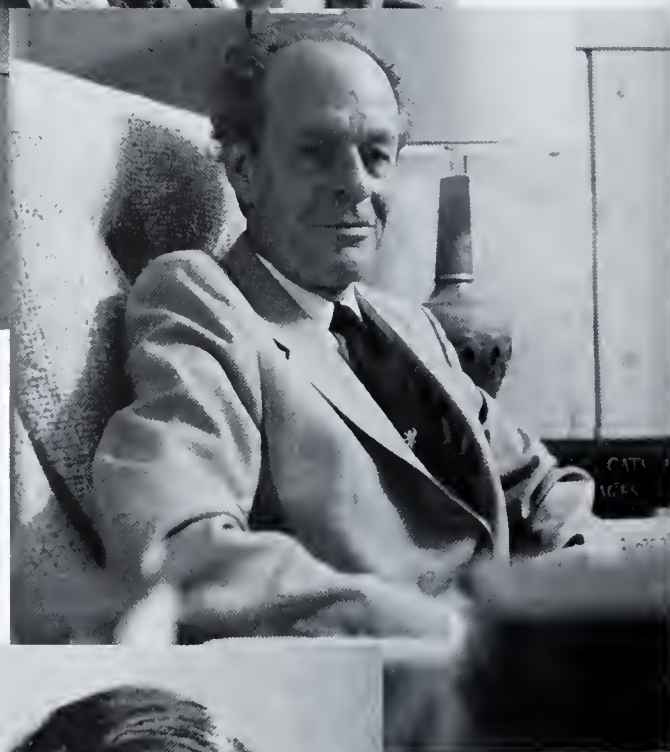

Graham Anderson

Excerpted from Rough Diamond
by Jay Connolly

Graham Anderson was a wonderful Housemaster. You see, the other Housemasters were all jocks; inter-house sports didn't mean anything to them because they were so involved in school sports. But Graham was completely enthusiastic. We were the first House to get house uniforms for basketball and rugby and so on. If you were the captain of a house sport, he'd come and say, "Look, we want good teams. I'm going to get some shorts for you." He really made you a partner in the whole thing, and he became really excited about it because he wasn't involved in any school sports. We didn't win everything, but we certainly did well. And Graham was the best supporter—by far the most enthusiastic Housemaster when it came to sports.

There are those whose contribution to Shawnigan is impossible to quantify; who have given their lives to making Shawnigan what it is today; whose presence will always be felt in the halls, classrooms, chapel, and fields of play. Graham Anderson is such an iconic figure. He taught until the day, a year and a half ago, when a stroke slowed him down ("only temporarily," he still insists). It is difficult to put into words what he has meant to generations of students.

... Looking back, Graham was just like a good father—always around. I started Shawnigan in grade six and went through grade twelve. Next to my own father, Graham was the most influential person in my life. He really knew me; he knew all my short falls and everything.

Paul Baylis, SLS 1958-1965

When the whistle blew for our final game at the field hockey Provincials, the team all ran together, holding each other tightly, knowing that we had made school history. Hugging my coaches and wrapping ourselves with the school flag, I felt so proud to be a part of Shawnigan. Every time I have a life-changing experience like this one, every time I feel proud to be a part of Shawnigan, I know it is only possible because of the love and support of people in the Shawnigan community, a community that I am proud to be a part of every day.

To my family, thank you for your support and advice over these last few years and for making Shawnigan possible. To all of my friends: thank you for putting a smile on my face every day. To the Koepps and the field hockey girls: you have made me fall in love with this amazing sport. Kaye's House, Mama D, and Mrs. Hamilton: thank you for your love and support. I will never forget you. To Mr. Robertson: thank you for letting me lead this school. This role has taught me so much. To Mrs. Kingstone: you are a wonderful teacher and mentor, and I am so thankful that I have been able to work with you. To returning students: I appreciate every moment, because before you know it, you will be writing one of these grad write-ups. Thank you so much everyone. Good Luck to the class of 2012!

I used to sit and listen to the stories my brothers told of being at boarding school. I envied them for the responsibility, trust, and freedom they had by being away from home. Growing up, Shawnigan was always a dream. When grade 8 rolled around and I was plunged into the busy demanding life that is Shawnigan, I was not sure I was cut out to be here. As the time passed, I finally found my place, and found support in my teachers, House Director, and advisor. When I was in grade 8, I remember looking at the Colts training on the field beside us and hoping with all my might I could make that team. I cannot put into words how honoured I was to represent Shawnigan as captain of both the Colt and Senior rugby programs. To Mr. Murdy and all the rugby boys through the years: you helped me achieve all I have. Through constant push of mental toughness that the coaches demanded, and the confidence and brotherhood that my teammates instilled in me, I have been made into the person I always hoped I would be. Of course, I will never forget Copeman's and the raider pride; it will burn in my heart forever. For all the nights of staying up late wrestling in the hallways, fighting and forgiving, crying together, facing challenges, singing at the top of our lungs out the windows, and the hours we have spent talking, my grade 12 Copeman's class, you have supported me for my five years here and you are all unforgettable friends. I don't know how to tell you how much all of you mean to me, but you have helped mold who I am, and I hope we never drift apart. Shawnigan will hold a place in my heart forever.

"Well hell Haydn, rugby is like life; it isn't SUPPOSED to be easy! Sometimes you just have to put your head down and work to push through the things that stand in your way. Who knows, if you push hard enough you might even get the try." - Tim Murdy

I say that my time here at Shawnigan was amazing would be an understatement. From rugby tours and training field hockey provincials, to camping on an animal reserve in South Africa, these past four years were unreal. My thanks go to Mrs. D, Ms. Woollven and Mrs. Hamilton for dealing with the drama and being there to talk to. Mr. Hall, you are an amazing coach and mentor. I can truly say that without Shawnigan, I would not have found my passion for rugby. Mum and Ed: these past years have been hard, but we stuck together through it all. To all the friends I made at Shawnigan: you are amazing and will never be forgotten. Dad, a day doesn't go by without thinking about you. Love You. Bye for now Shaw...but actually.

It lasted forever and ended too soon. Shawnigan was one of the best experiences of my life thus far. Doing grade 11 twice was probably one of the wisest decisions I have ever made. Shawnigan has been an amazing experience and I will never forget the friends I made and the memories the School has given me. I want to thank my family for giving me this opportunity, for without them I would not be here. As for my friends, the people who helped me get through the hard times, the good times, and everything in between, I would like to thank them with all my heart. Finally, I would like to thank the Stroebls. They were my second parents and were always there for me. Thanks for a great two years and good luck to the future students.

This was a good place. It was a good place to grow. It was a good place where I met lots of golden people who made a bad place bearable and a good place great. These beautiful people of golden light helped me be strong when it was dark. Many white doves flew in this golden place. Sister of gold, Kara, Brother of gold, Mike: you are my laughter and my bravery. Mother, Father: you carried me on your backs to this good, golden place. Thank you. Looking back on my short year at Shawnigan, everything seemed to fly by in a flurry of activity. I had an amazing experience here, with a little unexpected craziness on the side. There are a few things that I know that I will miss after leaving this school, even though I've only been here for a year: Saturday movie nights, working out with friends, learning to row, the cookies at Physics seminars, getting ready for dances 5 hours in advance, and all of the amazing and odd girls in Strath. You girls made my year special, and I'll never forget you! Lots of love!

My experience at Shawnigan has been enjoyable, challenging, rewarding, and much more; but no matter how I'll look back on it, it was all worth it. Shawnigan is the home away from home, the place I've grown and become who I am today. All of this couldn't have happened without my family. Dad, Mom, Paige and Brynne, thank you for being so loving and supportive. I'm grateful for everything you have done for me. I'm appreciative to all my teachers, the people I have met and the friends I have made. To all the Dux boys, I couldn't have asked for better brothers; make the House proud. Well, I guess this is it. It's been five incredible years and I could not be more grateful for the opportunities, friends and family this school has brought me. Thank you to anyone and everyone who has made these past five years the unforgettable experience it was. Moving to Shawnigan the first day of grade nine I can remember thinking, "Oh God, I can't do this." Well, thank you to all of the people who helped me to prove myself wrong. To my mum for letting me come to Shawnigan in the first place and for always having faith in me, and to all of my many teachers and coaches who inspired me and helped make my experience at Shawnigan so incredible. It's been a long and difficult journey but every minute of it has been worth it. If I could offer one piece of advice to a new student coming to Shawnigan it would be to live in the moment. Five years have gone by, and I can't believe it! I can distinctly remember arriving in grade 8 and being ecstatic about the adventure that I would be embarking on for the next five years. I remember never thinking that grade 12 would come, and now that it finally has, I look back on the memories that are now behind me. Shawnigan has taught me so many things, and I am so grateful for the people that have celebrated my successes and supported me through my failures. Thank you to Mr. Dukelow and Mr. McLeod for always being there, and to my friends for always offering me a smile when I have needed it! It is hard to believe that after 4 years at Shawnigan my journey is coming to an end. When I first arrived at Shawnigan I was convinced that it was not the place for me. I disliked the structure and boarding environment and was sure that I would not return for grade 10. However, the bonds of friendship I made convinced me that staying at Shawnigan was worth the inconveniences of living at a boarding school. I know the friendships will last me well past my time here. Furthermore, the friends I have in Lonsdales House are particularly important to me. They have been my family away from home, and I know that without them I would not be able to count myself as a graduate of Shawnigan.

The memories the school has given me will never be forgotten. First of all, I have to thank my family for the opportunity I was given, and how they helped me push through when times got tough. These last years have been quite the rollercoaster; learning new things and meeting new friends, and I am so grateful for the friends I have met at this school, keep in touch! I know I will look back and miss Shawnigan because these memories will not fade and this school has taught me so much, and helped shape who I am today. I am finally finished; three long stressful years and now I am free to do what I want. It's been an interesting endeavor, influenced by positive and negative growing experiences. To be honest, I didn't really know what to expect of Shawnigan upon my arrival. I assumed it was going to be a sort of voluntary juvenile hall, but it turns out it was more a place of opportunity. So my assumption was rather ironic; it turns out Shawnigan has been the most superb choice I have made in my seventeen years of existence. My decision to attend Shawnigan has set me up for the best butterfly effect that I can even think of. Now I am happy to say all my knowledge gained has gotten me accepted to University where I will be able to do everything that I want to do... within reason.

My time at Shawnigan has played a pivotal role in the upbringing of my personality. I have discovered parts of my character that never would have surfaced had I not been introduced to all the different “things” Shawnigan offers. Academics, rowing, and Model UN have all made me a more persevering and hardworking person and this would have been impossible had it not been for the effort my teachers and coaches put into me. Special friendships forged over many inside jokes and good times will also never be forgotten. Shawnigan is now a part of me and I can only hope that in future I can apply the lessons I have learned in this place.

I'd like to start off by saying thank you to everyone who helped me throughout my time at Shawnigan. To Mr. Pasquale for always being understanding; and to my family for giving me the opportunity to be here. It's been three years for me here at Shawnigan, and I'm excited to begin living life and seeing where it takes me.

I believe I am the last one to submit this Grad write up, which is reflective of my school career, filled with an abundance of procrastination. But who can blame me? Summing up 13 years of your life is hard, but here it is. It's been good, it's been bad, and I have had 100,001 different wonderful people to thank, like my parents, friends, Mr. Kingstone my adviser, Ms.D, Ms. Hamilton, my teachers, and everyone else who helped me go from being a crazy little kid, to a crazy little teenager.

Remember, you cannot be both young and wise. Young people who pretend to be wise to the ways of the world are mostly just cynics. Cynicism masquerades as wisdom, but it is the farthest thing from it. Because cynics don't learn anything. Because cynicism is a self-imposed blindness, a rejection of the world because we are afraid it will hurt us or disappoint us. Cynics always say no. But saying "yes" begins things. Saying "yes" is how things grow. Saying "yes" leads to knowledge. "Yes" is for young people. So for as long as you have the strength to, say "yes". — Stephen Colbert

After two years in Advanced Placement English and weeks of university application questions, I know all too well how quickly 120 words will fill. Explicitly expressing gratitude to each motivating teacher, influential House figure, and administrative staff member I met in grade eight (including but not limited to Austin, Kingstone, Dukelow, Lane, Connolly, Cox, Mayes, Grass, etc.) would require a significant number of words. Instead, I will simply state that I am forever grateful. I could constructively criticize schedule inconsistencies, house meeting inefficiency, questionable meal rations, and increasingly questionable behavior standards, but I already recognise that I will miss Shawnigan; university won't fabricate any improvement. Alas, I have wasted my section (and my G Block spare), but I have no regrets.

I'm so thankful for the opportunity to go to Shawnigan. It has changed my life in so many ways, I would not be here graduating when I'm supposed to if I were anywhere else. Shawnigan has given me the motivation and purpose to become a better person. I've gotten grades in certain classes I never thought were possible, and now I have found rugby, the sport I could never imagine falling in love with. The opportunities are endless. Having the teachers I've had, who helped me through everything, educational or personal. My 3 amazing friends M.H, K.C, E.A. My mom away from home, the beautiful Maureen Connolly. My inspiration in everything I do, Jonny D. A big thanks to my parents, and my 4 sisters and 1 brother, they are always there for me. Much love.

Reflecting on my two years at Shawnigan, I am surprised to say I am honestly going to miss this place. I'm going to miss my little house on the hill and all the Renfrew girls who have become my sisters, the squash team and our trips and all the other relationships I have formed here at this school. I want to thank my parents for providing me with this experience and the opportunities that it has provided me. Life is not about finding yourself. Life is about creating yourself. In my three years at Shawnigan, I have grown to reach potentials I never thought possible before. Be it running early morning stairs or the occasional raking of leaves, Shawinigan has taught me perseverance and commitment to succeed, and in failure, to learn. It is here that I have met the best people I know and love. It is here where my ambitions have thrived and new passions have taken shape.The camaraderie that is formed is truly unbelievable. Words cannot even begin to comprehend the appreciation I have for the following, Mr. Hyde Lay/Olsen who have been second fathers to me, Mr. Murdy who always believed in me no matter what, and Mr. Robertson who gave me the chance of a lifetime. Life is about creating who you want to be, but sometimes we don't get to choose where life takes us but we do get to choose how we embrace it.

Some people say that what's important in life isn't the destination, it's the journey. As I finish writing the high school chapter to my life, I've realized that it's even more than that—it's the people you take the journey with and the path you carve. To all my friends and family, you guys are the flowers along my path thus far; thank you for making my life a little more beautiful. I'm lucky enough to be taking some of you onto the next leg of my journey—but to those I'm leaving behind for now, I'll miss you for the time being but it won't be saying goodbye. Goodluck! My experience at Shawnigan isn't easy to explain, as it has been more than a learning curve for me. I've fought the experience here at different times and in different ways, but inevitably prevailed as a more rounded person. I'd like to thank my amazing housemates at Ripley's who always appealed to my optimism, and never hesitated in being more than friends but brothers. I also want to thank Mr. Samuel as he has been through thick and thin with me and been a large part of my success. I owe him my deepest gratitude. I am thankful for all my relationships to this amazing school, and I am sure they will never fade. Not only am I stronger for my time here, but I now know there is no limit to learning.

During my time here at Shawnigan I've learnt many things. I will not only leave this school with the knowledge I've received in class but what my house and peers have taught me. There are many people who I have to thank for my success here at Shawnigan. Mostly I would like to thank Mrs. D. without whom I would have gone insane by the end of the year. Thank you for being the amazing House Director you are. And while I wish I could thank all of you here, there is not nearly enough room. Still to all my Teachers, friends and Kaye's House, thank you.

Wow, three years has gone by fast. Shawnigan, although tiring and exhausting, was a good experience for me. First of all I would like to thank my fantastic parents for sending me here and providing me with this experience. I would like to thank all the teachers for putting up with me. Ms. Donahue, Mr. Evo, Mrs. Hutchins, Mr. Coy, Mrs. Coy, Mr. Morris and Ms. Dewis: you all gave me help when I needed it the most. To all the friends that I've made here: you guys are off the hizzurp; you know who you are. And finally, to the boys, and in particular grade 12s, of Lonsdale's: you will be my bros for life; there have been too many sick times to count. Keep the party rock going. I guess it's nearly over; I can't believe it. Take care, Shawnigan. By the way I'm never EVER going to chapel again.

I have to be honest, when I first came to SLS, I did not like it. I thought time and time again, "I'm going home at the end of this year, and I'm not coming back." But I did. Every time my parents asked, I told them that I wanted to go back. There was some elusive appeal to Shawnigan, and by the time I was finally a Senior, I understood. Shawnigan is not just a school, as cliché as that sounds. Shawnigan is a way of life, the chaos of balancing Academics, Sport, Fine Art, and House duties that combines in a way unlike any other.

Before I even arrived as a student at this marvelous school, I had many hopes, dreams and aspirations that I knew would present themselves as opportunities; I knew that I would need to take advantage of every one of them. After 4 years of being a proud Shawnigan student, I can honestly state that I am going to miss the Kayes girls from this year and past, the inter-house events, the Year Book team, the rowing girls, the relationships I've made, the late night laugh attacks with roommates, and the moment when you realize that your late for chapel. My five years at Shawnigan went by in a flash; it seemed like just yesterday I arrived. It wasn't the fancy dining hall, uniforms, or Chapel that made my time at Shawnigan memorable. I am proud to have been a resident of Copeman's House; and I will miss my housemates dearly. To express my life at Shawnigan in 120 words is impossible. Grade 10, you were painful to bear, grade 11, you were happier than 10, and grade 12, many tears to shed but smiles in the end. Shawnigan's all about endurance and late nights, cookies for breakfast, early mornings, doing homework during spares. To my friends: you make my life at Shawnigan much easier to bear. Years ago, I promised myself that I would never write a mawkish yearbook message. But now that it's my turn, I'm stumbling into that sentimental state. Mom, you held my hand through my needy years—and loosened your grip so I could become a big boy. Dad, you opened my mind to possibilities and encouraged me to make them a reality. Em, you used to be the annoying sister that every brother needs: you changed but not too much. Teachers and coaches, you revealed to me my potential and gave me a kick to go reach it. Friends who have brought me frustration, tears, joy, and laughter, you have made my life rich and rewarding. Well, uh...thanks.

Time flies. I can't believe I am graduating! I had many great and memorable experiences at Shawnigan. The boarding experience is the best part because I got to know people from different backgrounds and to make some long-lasting friendships. Although it was difficult for me to adapt to the fast-paced lifestyle when I came here, I managed to last through it. Through three years, I learned to enjoy challenges and carry a positive attitude toward everything. Now, I am graduating. I did not think the day would ever come. In contrast, these four last years flew by way too fast. To Mom, Dad, Lew, and Isobel, you guys have been so supportive and I am glad I had you all to guide the way for me. To Mrs. Stroebel, for doing so much for me, all the while trying to manage the rest of the house. To my Groves' Girls, for being the beautiful, amazing girls that you all are. Thank you, and good night.

"We met it seems, such a short time ago. You looked at me, needing me so. Yet from your sadness, our happiness grew. Then I found out, I need you, too. I remember how we used to play. I recall those rainy days, the fires glowed, that kept us warm. And now I find, we're both alone. Goodbye may seem forever, farewell like the end. Personally, I can still remember when I was in grade 9 being excited about being in boarding school. It turned out that I had to get used to rules and regulations. Four years of being in boarding school has changed my living habits. I borrow this moment to honour my teachers who taught me through my years. I have special thanks for Mr. P. and Mr. Fehr for letting me be I.T. captain and instructing our house. I guess I had fun during my years.

My years at Shawnigan have been the greatest years of my life. I would like to thank my parents, my grandparents, my sister, and most of all my brother for all their support. My brother prepared me for an amazing 3 years in Lake's House, and I will cherish every memory. Shawnigan has transformed my life; it has shaped me into an individual I thought I could never become. I thank all the friends I have made here: the men of Lake's, Henry, Calvin, Stephen, Pals, Giselle, and everyone else who helped make my years here so special. Thank you for everything Shawnigan, you will always have a special place in my heart.

Three years slipped away silently in snowfall, sunshine, and strain; I am done high school. Mom and Dad, words cannot describe my gratitude. Thank you for the opportunity and all the moral support. Shawnigan would have been nothing without Eva, Jean, Tomm, Noelle, Cheley (with one l), Maia, Alexis, Lizzie, Giselle, Ines, Sylvia, Esme, and Savannah. I will miss quoting Mean Girls on Founder's Day and eating over-priced Mr. Noodle while watching Mean Girls. Thank you all for being such funny, welcoming, and charming people—people who cannot pronounce "L"s. I will miss you all. Short 128 words put an end note to my story, but the memories will forever live. In the midst of conflicting emotion, I look forward to the adventure ahead of me...and cheaper chocolate bars.

Ummm, what to say? Well Shawnigan Lake School has become my life for the past two years, and it means so much to me that I had the opportunity to come here. So I would like to thank: my family for giving me the chance to go to this school; my friends for helping me adjust to the Shawnigan way; my teachers for being understanding to the needs of 450ish students and still have the time for one more, and Mr. Robertson. It's been a blast, but it's time to move on. Goodbye, Shawnigan.

And just like that, it is all over. When you're going through the motions of Shawnigan, the days seem endless. Looking back now, they seem to have passed by in a flash; one year compressed into four. My journey has been more than a simple experience. It has challenged me physically and mentally, strengthened my endurance of hard work and inspired me toward ambitious aspirations. Although I may not be able to remember every moment spent at Shawnigan, I will never forget those who impacted me: teachers, coaches, friends and teammates. Finally, to my parents for their unwavering support and faith in me, I cannot thank you enough! As I face my future, I look forward with optimism and excitement to a new adventure!

It is finally time to leave the place I have called home for four years. I have enjoyed my time at Shawnigan, and I will never forget some of the memories I have here. I'd like to thank my parents for this amazing opportunity. Without their support, in all aspects of my life, I wouldn't have developed into the person I am today. I'd like to thank all my friends, especially the boys in the best house, Ripley's, for making my Shawnigan experiences a whole lot better. Also, I am thankful to all my teachers and sport coaches for making sure I always performed my best. Altogether, it's been good here, but I'm glad to say goodbye.

I have faced many challenges in my life and Shawnigan is one of them. The early mornings, dragging yourself to breakfast, to committing yourself 24/7 in everything else, is quite strenuous; however, it is how you deal with those situations that proves your true character. That is what Shawnigan has allowed me to achieve. I will never forget the great times in the House with the boys or the early morning trips to hockey practice. I am going to miss it, but it has left me with an abundant amount of opportunities for my future. Life is fast. Shawnigan is faster. Make what you can of every opportunity.

"Then sings my soul, My Saviour God, to Thee. How great Thou art! How great Thou art!" Even though half of the Lonsdale's guys were missing, we sang our house hymn loud and proud, as we all found ourselves lucky and honored to be a part of the Lonsdale's family. During my first year at Shawnigan, I had many challenges, especially my integration into a different culture and environment. However, with the brotherhood, the Lonsdale's family, I've never felt I have left "home", as we all respected each other and shared moments of happiness and sadness together. Although graduation is a time of completion of the school year, our house spirit will never fade away.

How do we find happiness? Trophies won? Grades achieved? Titles gained? These things all make happy, but are not where I have found happiness. I have found happiness, not in awards, titles or trophy but in the journey. I have spilled blood, sweat and tears. I've made more mistakes than I can count. I have found friendship, love and laughter. And sometimes the biggest hardships were also the best memories. I'm leaving now, hopeful, excited. But part of me will always live here. Time goes quickly, countdowns not so much. I decided to stop counting down this year, it scared me.... 6 months till my high school career is done (fingers crossed) have quickly turned to 6 days. It's been great and that's because I've been privileged with a loving and supportive family, fantastic teachers, and the best friends. I couldn't be more grateful to have come to Shawnigan last year; I've learned lots. Unfortunately, I haven't yet figured out what I'm going to do in the future, so really asking that question is pointless - you'll just get the stink eye.

I think I have gained some valued insights here at Shawnigan.

There is an ecstasy that marks the summit of life, and beyond which life cannot rise. And such is the paradox of living, this ecstasy comes when one is most alive, and it comes as a complete forgetfulness that one is alive. This ecstasy, this forgetfulness of living, comes to the artist, caught up and out of himself in a sheet of flame, it comes to the soldier, war-mad on a stricken field and refusing quarter; and it came to the wolf, leading the pack, sounding the old wolf-cry, straining after the food that was alive and that fled swiftly before him through the moonlight."

First and foremost I'd like to recognize my intelligent, heart-warming, caring, fun-filled, adventurous, sensational parents for giving me the gift of being born. It's been 5 years since I first arrived at Shawnigan. Weird to think that roughly 1,825 days ago I was that small grade 8. Shawnigan has been an experience, not one I always appreciated, but one that I will never forget. Throughout the years I've learnt that Shawnigan is not about its food, definitely not about Chapel, but the friends that you make. The friends that I made are friends that I will never forget. I think that when I leave this place, I will finally be happy. Not because Shawnigan is a terrible place (it's not terrible), but because I made it. I can say that I graduated from Shawnigan Lake School. Gracefully? No. But I did anyways, and I'm proud. There are lots of things I won't miss about this place: Assessment weeks; early chapel mornings to name a few. But for everything I won't miss, there are many more I will. Every assessment week that passed spelled amazing assessment sleep-ins. Chapel services would have the school singing my favourite hymns, hymns that I will keep singing even after graduating. I'll miss everybody I met here, specifically Mr. Coy, Mr. Morris and all the boys of Lonsdale's House. Firstly, I would like to thank my parents for making this school a reality for me. These five years have gone by so quickly. I will always remember my first day, and now I am looking forward to my last. I would like to thank all the guys of Duxbury for you know... being the best house and all my teachers for putting up with me, especially my two coaches Mr. P and Mr. Hyde-lay. This school is what has made me who I am today.

I would like to thank my parents and Mrs. Samuel for introducing me to Shawnigan and making it possible for me to come to attend school here. Shawnigan has introduced me to some extraordinary people who I will never forget. I have made friendships which I will cherish and try to maintain until well after my time spent here is over.

Five years at Shawnigan seemed to last forever, and now it is ending so soon. Field Hockey Girls: I will never forget the last minutes we played together; the joy we shared in winning and the friendships we forged. Groves': the house that has turned into a home, the girls who are my sisters and the staff that love us all, thank you. Dear friends, we've been through everything together, growing up, boys and math tests. It is time for our next adventure; be brave and stick close, girls. Most importantly, my family: Mum and Dad, thank you so much. Your heart and devotion has gotten me through every moment. I love you. Grad 2012, keep it classy.

In these past five years Shawnigan Lake School has provided me with nothing but joyful memories. I'm extremely thankful for this opportunity. However, now when I'm writing this grad write up, I realize how fast these five years have gone. I can still remember when I was a little grade eight how I totally ignored rugby practice to run around the Senior Rugby field because I saw snow for the first time. Although this journey at Shawnigan has been "short", it has brought me all my friends who I know will always be there for me, and unforgettable memories.

It is hard to believe my Shawnigan career is already over. The scene of my arrival is still fresh in my mind. People always say high school is the most enjoyable time in our life, but at this moment I am simply interested in moving on and having a new start at university. However, I guarantee myself that in 30 years, I will be missing this place and the experiences I have had.

I want to thank everyone I have met; you will all remain in my heart. Last but not least, I would also like to thank my family for all the support they have given me along my life.

Apply yourself. Do whatever it takes to succeed. Take advantage of the opportunities presented to you, and enjoy doing them. End results are great, but what really matters is if you enjoyed the ride...

I've enjoyed the ride. Shawnigan is home to some of the most interesting people in the world, from all over the world. I've had the opportunity and privilege to call this place home; home, for a brief time in my life. That time is coming to an end. Leaving will be sad, but life is all about letting go. Who knows what the future will bring? I can't predict it, but knowing myself, I'm sure I'll have a blast. L'chaim, friends!

I'm sitting reading while my grandma is working on last week's crossword. "Alexander, could you pass me that newspaper? I'm not getting anywhere with this." I grab it off of the table and hand it to her. She looks at me, and says; "I see this as cheating. I don't like to do it often, but sometimes it's necessary when you're not getting anywhere." – Grandma Swainson

To me, studying abroad in Canada was a challenge. It was hard in the beginning, because I was unfamiliar with the demands of boarding school life and I was homesick. I felt left out and didn't fit into this foreign culture at first. This school is full of laughter and the students are very friendly. Their enthusiasm makes me feel very comfortable being part of the Shawnigan community. I made a lot of great friends here, friends from all over the world. All of my friends and teachers were very sincere with me and have helped me to get through the hardships that I faced. Without them, my Shawnigan life wouldn't be that wonderful and memorable.

First off I want to thank Mr. P for everything that he's done. I couldn't have done it without you. Second, I want to thank my parents and the school for putting up all the money needed for me to graduate and go on the sports tours I went on. I'm happy I'm finished and I can't wait to move on and start making some money.

Leaving behind everyone I love will be a challenge, but starting a new beginning will be an adventure. To everyone who helped me through, Mrs. Robertson, Ms. Conroy, Miss Agate, the duty staff, my teachers, my coaches, Hallboy and Klusty. Thank you for always being there when I needed you most. You made me stronger, in every way possible. Renfrew, you girls have been my sisters and best friends. My teammates, thank you for making me stronger, and make the Ironwomen proud. To my friends, I know our friendships will last forever. To my parents, thank you so much for everything you've done for me, to put me through Shawnigan. Shawnigan is just a small step into a large future.

Shawnigan has been an amazing experience. I would like to thank my parents for allowing this all to happen, and my friends for helping me have such a great year. Although I only came here for my final high school year I left being a better person because of it. Thank you to the boys of Copeman's that welcomed me into the house with open arms. I will never forget this past year and will always be proud to say I graduated from Shawnigan Lake School, and with no regrets.

When I was eight, I vowed never to wear socks with sandals. After three years resplendent in knee socks and birkenstocks, my opinions have changed. Shawnigan has been a whirlwind of laughter, early morning rows, less rain than at home, homework in every spare second, and an endless supply of chicken and rice. Luckily, the wonderful ladies of my nanaimo-bar house were always here to distract with chocolate, advice, and math-inspired dance moves. Thank you to all of the teachers, coaches, staff members, students, friends and relatives who have supported me. It would take more than 120 words to name all of the individuals who have touched my life and inspired me to do my utmost to succeed.

The last four years have gone by in the blink of an eye. I can honestly say I remember my first new study day as if it was yesterday, I didn't know anyone, I was excited and I got lost walking to the barbeque. I have made lifelong friends at school who I will never forget. I just want to say thank you to Mrs. Grass for always being patient with me, but being stern when it came to making me stay on top of my school work. Mr. Hyde-Lay became like a second father to me, so thank you Mr. Hyde-Lay. Most of all, thank you to the grad class for making the last four years unforgettable.

I've always tried to live through the words of two people. My father, who profoundly uses the word, "balance" and who inspires me to be the person I am today. Also, Toby, a Norwegian family friend who has showed me the thrill of the hunt, taught me to fish, fillet, and explore... "Back to the basics." This phrase has taught me how to be humble and happy for what I have; rather than to want what I don't have. I believe that Shawnigan has only reinforced these two ways of living and I thank everybody and the experiences that Shawnigan has given me, to make me a better person. As I go from here I say "go out and explore while never looking back on what you could have done but rather what you have done."

The average response you get when telling someone that you go to boarding school is "Well, that must suck." I want to thank Shawnigan for proving to me that it really is one heck of a fun ride. In the 5 years of my life spent within these gates, I have made bonds and friendships that never will be broken and that I will take to my grave. Thinking about what the future holds for me is exciting, but for the moment I'd like to raise a glass to Shawnigan. Cheers to the wonderful people that fill the halls of our school, eating way too many Ritz cookies, early morning rows, school wide snowball fights, rolling on the ground laughing with the girls in my house, and singing about three times time louder than I really should in Chapel. You will be missed, Shaw.

Three years; that's three years of crazy Shawnigan life, and I mean crazy... 3 years of staying up till midnight laughing with my Kaye's girls, passing time with the greatest friends, learning from the wisest teachers (special shout out to Mamma D, you taught me so much about life and I will cherish the memories we've had). I want to thank my family: you've been there for me through everything - my successes and failures, and I love you guys for that. Hammy, you showed me how to reach my full potential and were always there for me when I needed you. It's been a wild ride, every twist and turn has made it perfect. We did it grad 2012; party on.

Three years has gone by since I first came to Shawnigan. Well, what can I say? Shawnigan is my second home, my home away from home and I have changed quite a bit. There's much more to Shawnigan than a voice crying in the wilderness. I thank Shawnigan for the many things it has done for me, from the knowledge it has bestowed upon me, to the pride of being able to say, "I'm from Shawnigan." I wished I could do much more for the school in return. Shawnigan has been my stepping stone to my upcoming university life and I am truly grateful for all that has been given to me for the duration of my Shawnigan experience.

Hmmm. Three years of life at Shawnigan have gone by so very quickly – I was just getting warmed up! I have both learned a lot and grown a lot in the last three years. I consider myself very fortunate to have had the opportunity to live the Shawnigan experience, and for that I cannot thank my parents enough. Thanks also to TCoy and all of my Lonsdale's brothers for an incredible support network. Thanks to the rowing program for teaching me that incredibly hard work and perseverance really do pay off. Also, a special thanks to Mrs. Samuel for her belief in me. I am a little sad to be leaving, but excited to start the next chapter, knowing that Shaw has given me what it takes to succeed at the highest level.

My three years at Shawnigan have flown by and I have so many people that I wish to thank, especially Mrs. Donohue, Mr. Wilke, Duke, Mr. Kingstone. The journey that began 5 years ago would have been impossible without the support of all those that I love. So I say thank you. Thank you to my parents who sacrificed so much to keep me at this school and to my brother who was always there; I'm lucky to have you. To the people that have shown me how to love: you will always be in my heart wherever life leads me. To my friends and Strathcona girls who are all a part of the foundation that has built me up. To my beloved roommate Rachel who endured my mess and fanatics for 3 years straight. I wish you luck; I know you will go far. I love you all.

After 5 years I've learned a lot (obviously), but I believe the most important lessons I've learned were not from my classes, but rather my friends and family. So here are a few thank yous:

Mom and Dad: Thanks for supporting me in my pursuit of excellence.

Mr. and Mrs. Stroebel: Thanks for giving me a second home.

Aly: Thanks for showing me what not to do. You are my favorite sister. Yay, you beat Rug!

Giselle: Thanks for proving sleep is not a necessity.

Erin: Thanks for being my best friend. May milk always be a bad choice and fudge always be furious.

Shawnigan: Thanks for letting me make my mark. Don't miss me too much.

The first time I realized the impact Shawnigan had on me was when I got homesick in Mexico with my parents because I missed my bed in Duxbury. My boys in Dux have made my time here incredible and unforgettable. I must also thank the house staff including the Dukelows, my parents away from home. I appreciate everything that was done for us. I know it is not easy taking care of 54 boys. I will never forget my boys up in 209/101. Rugby was probably 70% of my time here; it was addicting and made closer ties with another groups of boys that will never be forgotten, Rugby '09-'12. I made the best of what I had here at Shawnigan, and took advantage of everything it had to offer and will represent everywhere I go.

As my time at Shawnigan draws to an end, I realize that I have had an amazing time here. During my three years at Shawnigan, there have been enjoyable and stressful times, but in the end, it was entirely worth it. I would like to thank my parents for giving me the opportunity to attend such an amazing school, and for giving me the experience of a lifetime. Thank you to my teachers and coaches; especially to Mr. and Mrs. Koepp: thank you for your all encouragement and support, and for never taking "no" for an answer. Finally, to all my Kaye's girls: Thank you for making my time here at Shawnigan the best that it could possibly be!
